

DOVE OF PEACE IS STILL ON THE WING

PROPOSITION TO BULGARIA TO END THE WAR HAS BEEN COMMUNICATED TO OTHER BALKAN STATES.

TURKS AWAIT ANSWER

Meanwhile the Wounded Are Swarming into Constantinople and Cholera Becomes More Prevalent.

Sofia, Nov. 15.—The subject of peace negotiations is absorbing the entire attention of the Bulgarian government for the moment. The Bulgarian cabinet lost no time in communicating to the allies the contents of the letter from the grand vizier on the subject of an armistice.

It is stated the peace conditions will be formulated with the least possible delay and presented to Turkey.

Unless they are accepted within 24 hours after their presentation hostilities will be continued as the Bulgarian generals are not willing to permit Turkey to gain valuable time by wringing over conditions. A prompt acceptance may avert the entry of the Bulgarian troops into Constantinople.

It is believed Bulgaria will not object to Turkey retaining Constantinople and the Dardanelles.

Regarding the military situation at the Tchatalja line of forts in front of the Turkish capital, many rumors
are in circulation, but so far as is officially known no serious engagement
has yet occurred.

There have been merely a few encounters between the Bulgarian and Turkish outposts and while the Bulgarians
have occupied three villages
in front of the fortifications.

King Ferdinand of Bulgaria is now
at Kirk-Killesse, but it is reported that he is preparing to start for Tchatalja.

War Over.

Constantinople by way of Kustendje,
Nov. 15.—The opinion is general here that the war practically is over. An armistice with the Bulgarians in all probability will be arranged within the next few days and this will be followed by direct negotiations for peace.

The Ottoman government fully resists that further resistance can only worsen the position of Turkey still more while its outcome is extremely problematical and might lead to even more humiliation.

Only a few of the soldiers badly
wounded in battle have arrived here.
A number of the invalided men are infected by gangrene. The physicians say that many of the wounds
have been self-inflicted.

No Cholera.

None of the cholera patients are sent to the city, but little precaution is taken to prevent refugees bringing in the disease. Fugitives continue to crowd around the city walls. Train-loads of them are being sent out daily
along the railway into Asia Minor.

Many of the foreign residents who were willing to risk the chance of a fanatical outbreak are departing for Europe because of the cholera.

The departure of prominent members of the young Turks' party for Europe is considered by many as foreshadowing possible return of the old regime in which case the young Turk leaders would be the first sufferers.

Find Difficulties.

The foreign military attaches here
are of the opinion that the Bulgarians are finding many difficulties and they have been unable to bring up a sufficient army to insure a successful attack on the Tchatalja lines which must be made direct on the front. The scheme of defense drawn up for the commander of the foreign warships
here provides only for the protection of foreigners and not the prevention of massacres.

The fear of which, however, has been largely dissipated. The German cruiser, Goeben arrived today.

Revolutionary Outbreak.

News from the interior of Asia Minor indicates that there is danger of anarchy and revolutionary outbreaks
that if the central Turkish government should become further disorganized public opinion is beginning to rally to the best possible conditions of peace
will be obtained.

Days of Anarchy.

Athens, Nov. 15.—The last days of Turkish rule in Saloniki were days of anarchy, according to a dispatch received from that city. The Greek minister of justice M. Ractivan who went there to represent the Greek government was accompanied by Col.
Montferrats with strong detachments
of Greek and Cretan military police who took immediate steps to re-establish order.

Vans of Musselman Albanians from the district of upper Albania continued to pillage and commit outrages
in Northern Epirus and the district of Argiro Castro, which is inhabited almost entirely by Greeks according to a semi-official announcement.

The district has been devastated and practically depopulated by these systematic depredations. According to a dispatch received here today the Russian consul at Saloniki has received instructions from St. Petersburg formally to recognize Grecian rule and to place him under the jurisdiction of the Russian legation at Athens.

The consul accompanied by the commander of the Russian warship stationed at Saloniki immediately visited crown prince Constantinople and communicated to him their orders.

Hand to Hand.

Vienna, Nov. 15.—A hand to hand bayonet fight occurred at the port of San Giovanni di Medua during Thursday night, when the Montenegrins succeeded in dislodging Turks from the mountains dominating the city.
According to a dispatch from Dulcigno
to Zeit a number of English volunteers fighting on the Montenegrin side were wounded. Six Turkish soldiers were taken prisoners.

M'NAMARAS BOUGHT
MANY ALARM CLOCKS

Jewelry Store Employees Testify in Dynamiting Trial—Purchases Aroused Suspicion.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 16.—Jewelry store employees testified at the dynamite conspiracy trial today that alarm
clocks used by the McNamara brothers and Orville E. McManigal, in the manufacture of bombs were purchased in such quantities as to arouse suspicion. McManigal had confessed that when he bought clocks he pretended he gave them to farmers. How the dynamiter bought twelve small clocks at Pittsburgh in July, 1910, after he had blown up a job at McKee's Rock, was described by Miss Margaret Burns. She said when she sold the clocks to McManigal she asked him what he was going to do with so many and he replied they were for friends in the country. Miss Anne Elliott testified that McManigal bought at an Indianapolis jewelry store all the alarm clocks in stock.
According to McManigal, J. J. Mc-Namara, secretary of the Ironworkers
union, used to keep a stock of clocks locked in a vault in his office. The clocks were fitted to bombs so that when the alarms went off at a pre-arranged time, the handles of the winders connected up a battery and caused the explosion. The similarity of a clock which McManigal lost at Peoria, Ill., and another clock found at Los Angeles, Calif., was one of the clues which puzzled detectives on the dynamiters' trail. Several residents of Muncie, Ind., testified concerning a vacant house in that city in which McManigal said he, the McNamaras and Herbert S. Hockin in 1909 stored nitro-glycerin. Emanuel Modoux, a box manufacturer, testified that Hockin
in ordered nitro-glycerin packing boxes
which were delivered to the Muncie house. Other witnesses testified Hockin was seen about the house.

CLERKS BEGIN WORK ON TARIFF REVISION

Democrats in Congress to Determine Upon Program or Extra Session.

While Wilson Rests.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Clerks of the house ways and means committee are already at work on the tariff revision bills for the special session of congress which President-elect Wilson has stated he will summon to meet next April. While the president-elect is resting at Bermuda during the next few weeks, the democrats of the two houses will endeavor to settle the general program
to be followed at the extra session.
It has not been determined whether one general bill will be introduced embracing the wool, cotton, iron and steel revisions which the democratic house has previously passed, or whether each of these tariff schedules will again be brought in the form of a separate bill. Little time will be necessary, it is believed, to perfect wool, cotton, metal and chemical revision bills because of the work done by the democratic ways
and means committee in preparing similar bills passed in the last two sessions and which were vetoed by President Taft. The democratic leaders are not agreed, however,
over the sugar tariff and this situation is puzzling the managers of the part in both houses. The house free sugar bill passed at the last session
did not meet the approval of the democrats in the senate and it still rests in a conference committee of the two houses. Suggestions have been made by influential members of the senate within the last week
that joint committee reprinting
representing house and senate democrats be informally selected before the special session begins to go over the tariff situation and harmonize whatever difference may exist between the democrats of the two bodies upon the more important tariff schedules. Such action would result in speedy disposition of tariff revision, it is believed if the new congress meets in April.

Schepps, Vallon, Bridgie Webber and Jack Rose Witnesses in Rebuttal
To Testimony of Alleged Rosenthal Murderers.

New York, Nov. 16.—Sam Schepps, Harry Vallon, Bridgie Webber and Jack Rose, the four informers were expected to take the stand today in the trial of "Gib-the-Blond," "Lefty"
Lewis, Whitey Lewis, and "Dago
Frank" for the murder of Herman Rosenthal. These witnesses were to rebut testimony introduced by the defense to prove its contention that the shots which ended the gambler's life were fired by two of the informers and an unidentified stranger and that the four defendants lured to the scene of the shooting by Jack Rose had no part in the murder.

Remarkable Operation.
A most remarkable surgical case is the almost complete recovery of Mrs. Mary Marlans of Orange, N. J., whose back was broken more than two months ago in a fall down a flight of stairs. The unusual operation was performed of reinforcing the fractured vertebrae with fine wire.

Janesville Men in the Battle Near Culpepper Court House

Just after the fighting on the Rappahannock river, in Virginia, during the year 1863, in the Civil War, A. W. Hathaway, captain of Company E, of the Fifth Wisconsin Volunteer Regiment, wrote to the Janesville Gazette a letter describing what the Wisconsin men had done in the battle which was a victory for the Union side. The Fifth Wisconsin took a prominent part in the fighting, although their losses were comparatively small, and members of Company E were Janesville men who had enlisted soon after the War of the Rebellion commenced. The battle occurred on the seventh of November, 1863, and the letter, which was written November 12, was published in the Gazette of November 13. It is as follows:

Camp in the Field, Virginia, November 12, 1863.
Messrs. Editors:
As we have just passed through another fiery ordeal, I thought a few lines, in regard to the same, would be acceptable to you, and the friends of Co. E, who are the readers of your paper.

We left our camp near Warrenton at daylight on the morning of the 7th inst., and marched some ten miles, when our further progress was stopped by the appearance of rebels and a line of rifle pits, and fortifications, behind which the rebels were stationed in some force.

About sunset our brigade moved forward, and received orders to charge the forts and rifle pits of the enemy, which we did in the style, the 5th Maine leading as skirmishers, and supported in line by the 5th Wisconsin, and the rest of our brigade (the 49th and 119th Penn., regiments) and by two regiments (the 5th Maine and the 112th New York) of the 2d division. We drove the rebels from their strong position, capturing four pieces of artillery which had been throwing shot and shell into us as we advanced, five cannons, eight rebel battle flags, sixteen hundred greybacks, and two thousand stand of small arms. The enemy were completely routed. We drove them into the river and some who escaped our shot managed to get across. Many were shot in crossing.

The firing continued until long after dark. The next morning there were no signs of the rebels on this side of the river, and about 11 o'clock we crossed, and halted about six miles from Culpepper Court House, where we are in camp, waiting for the railroad to be repaired, when I presume we shall move on, if the weather permits.

Color Sergeant C. O. Harrington, and S. P. Smith, who are in the color guard, and who belong to Co. E, planned the colors of our regiment on the rebel fort. The 6th Maine planted the colors of their regiment on the fort to the left of us.

The following are the casualties: The 6th Maine lost 130 in killed and wounded. They lost 13 officers out of 23. The 5th Wisconsin lost 83 in killed and wounded. Col. Allen was wounded on the hand, he was at the head of his regiment until wounded. Maj. Wheeler was severely wounded, and when last heard from was falling. Captain Wainwright of Co. A, was killed. Captain Orway of Co. D, was killed. Lieutenants Hutchinson of Co. B, and Farwell of Co. K, were severely wounded. Sergeant McDaniel of Co. E, fell over a stump as we were going on the double-quick, and was severely bruised in the stomach. He is at the hospital. Sergeant Raynor, slightly wounded with a piece of shell. Corporals Newkirk and Weed, both wounded, not dangerously. Privates Wm. Sticks, Rossell Beach, George Montgomery, N. Parker, T. Evans, J. D. Dwyer, D. Williams, all wounded. The four last named are back to the company again, having been but slightly wounded, as also, Sergt. Raynor. Private John B. Russell was killed. Total: killed, 1; wounded, 11, in Co. E.

Perhaps the following congratulatory order from Gen. Russell, will give you a better idea of our engagement than I can express myself.

Headquarters Third Brigade, November 9, 1863.
Officers and Soldiers:
Your gallant deeds of the 7th of November will live in the annals of our country and will not be the least glorious of the exploits of the Army of the Potomac.

But your General cannot but express to you himself, his congratulations upon your success and his appreciation of your daring and gallantry. To have carried by storm, with a mere skirmish line, and a feeble support in numbers, powerful earthworks, a strong natural position, manned by the flower of the rebel army, and strengthened by artillery would be an achievement which a division of our forces might well feel proud in; but it was not too much for the gallant sons of Maine and Wisconsin. Your general felt confident that soldiers, who in camp served all the strict rules of military life with fidelity, would be reliable in the field; and in this, his first essay of your prowess you exceeded his most sanguine expectations. With the actual result of your engagement you are all too familiar to render recapitulation necessary, but there is the further reflection to offset the saddening influences of the loss of your well tried and courageous brethren in arms, that any subsequent attack upon your opponents, better prepared and strengthened as they would have been, must have attended with yet sadder, and it may be, a less successful result. The banner of this brigade shall bear the name "Rappahannock" to perpetuate, so long as those banners shall endure, (dropping and shredding away though they may, for generations.) the proud triumph won by you on the 7th of November, 1863.

By command of
Brig. Gen. D. A. RUSSELL,
C. H. HURD, A. A. G.
Our flag is rather small, it having been torn to shreds by bullets, grape and shell, in the Fredericksburg charge and this one.

My company behaved bravely. Every man went up to the work like true patriots as they are. No conscript, nor 400 dollar stuff in them, I assure you.

sell cotton, grain, provisions and live stock.

The same advice is given to manufacturers and those connected with them. There is no cause for any alarm, no cause for the reduction of wages nor for the reduction in values of manufactured articles.

The farmers, planters and manufacturers should prepare to produce all they possibly can during the next twelve months and should not be in a hurry to sell anything. The demand will be large and the opportunity to produce will be good. Among other things the conditions in all other countries are certainly quite favorable to the States and Canada.

The last half of December promises to be colder than usual with particularly severe weather 15 to 24. Deep snows are not expected and precipitation of the winter will not be great.

YOUNG LADIES WRITE DR. HARTMAN

DR. S. B. HARTMAN

In my answers to correspondence, published recently, I was told by a young lady who had written me concerning pimples and blackheads that we were spoiling her complexion. I undertook to give this young lady some advice, concealing her name of course.

The publication of my advice on this subject has brought me a shower of letters from young ladies. I had no idea there were so many young ladies afflicted in this way. In spite of all the advertised remedies for pimples, and lauded preparations to produce clear skin and splendid complexion, in spite of all this it seems there are a large number of young ladies who are haggardly anxious about their complexions. I thought perhaps a short talk from me on this subject might be a good thing.

Of course I will be suspected of wishing only to sell my medicine, and to recommend Peruna for such cases. In spite of this, however, I am going to recommend Peruna for pimples and blackheads. Let me tell you why.

The bowels when they are healthy contain no poisonous material. Long before the poisons can generate the contents of the bowels are discharged, provided they are in ordinary activity. But constipation will dam up the contents of the bowels and retain them so long that they decompose and furnish poisonous gas and fluids. These poisons are absorbed by the blood vessels in the bowels and taken into the system. The result is pimples and blackheads and other disfigurements of the complexion. Young ladies especially are subject to constipation. I think I should not be wide of the truth if I should say that one-half of the young ladies of this country suffer from constipation.

Now I wish to say that Peruna will regulate the bowels. It will stimulate the excretory organs. Peruna will clear the complexion simply because it takes away the offending poisonous materials which cause pimples, blotches spots on the skin, roughness of the skin, warts, moles and the like. I make no apology, and have no hesitation in saying to the public that Peruna taken according to directions on the bottle will do more towards beautifying the complexions of our young ladies than all the applications that can be made to the skin. All the facial massage and treatments that have ever been invented never will do these cases so much good as Peruna, except some other medicine which is made on similar lines.

I do not claim that Peruna is the only medicine that will prevent absorption of poisons from the bowels. But I do claim that it is one of the medicines that will do this—a reliable one—an old and trusted one—one that has stood the test of years—one that is lauded by thousands of people who have tried it.

So then, young ladies, if you want clear skins, free from pimples, take Peruna. This is the advice of an old, experienced physician who admires young ladies in a fatherly way, who is acquainted with scores of them. What I am telling you in this article I have told my own family, my own children and grandchildren many times, and the numerous acquaintances with whom I daily associate.

Peruna, Manatin and Lacapla manufactured by the Peruna Company, Columbus, Ohio. Sold by all drug stores.

SPECIAL NOTICE:—Many persons inquire for The Old-Time Peruna. They want the Peruna that their Fathers and Mothers used to take. The old Peruna is now called Katarno. If your druggist or dealer does not keep it for sale write the Katarno Company, Columbus, Ohio, and they will tell you all about it.

NEW DOTY MILL IS READY TO OPERATE

All Work on Mill Completed and Work At Mill Will be Commenced Within Few Days.

All work on the new Doty flour and feed mill, at the foot of Dodge street, has been completed, and within a few days, it is expected, the mill will be put in operation. The new mill replaces the old mill one of the landmarks of Janesville, which was destroyed by fire early in the spring. The new mill is up-to-date in every way, as respects milling machinery and

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Gazette:
Your editorial, or article, in last night's Gazette side-steps the point I make, namely, that the city of Janesville, and its business interests, are being injured, and to a large degree, by the frenzied attacks that are being made on the city itself. Ask dry goods merchants, ask shoe merchants, gents' clothing, jewelers, or furniture merchants whether damage is being done to the city or not by the method that is being pursued and the attacks that are being made and published.

The writer of the article referred to agrees fully, heartily and cordially

was erected at a total cost, including the building and machinery, of about ten thousand dollars. The capacity of the mill is fifty-two tons of flour per day, three tons of feed and the five bins of from twelve to fifteen thousand bushels of corn and feed. The dimensions are forty by fifty-two feet and the building has two stories and four floors. On the first floor are the four mills, two of four rolls each and two of six rolls each. Four bolting machines have been placed on the second floor, and the corn sheller is located in the basement.

with the purpose and results desired to be accomplished in the betterment of the city. But if the city has faults it isn't necessary to publish those faults from the house tops. It wasn't necessary for Mr. Jacobs last Monday to, and he didn't make any fuss about the action he took. It isn't necessary for any one who knows of any violation of law to advertise it to the world before he goes and swears out a complaint against the violator. It isn't necessary for any one who knows that a policeman has failed in his duty to publish it throughout the state before he files a complaint to the Fire and Police Commission.

The writer did not know of the two horrible examples of immorality referred to in your article until he read it in your valued paper. Fourteen thousand others in the city of Janesville knew nothing about it until they read it in your columns. It's just as well if the fourteen thousand did not know it. Though the names are not given, inquiries will be made from one to the other new very diligently until they learn the names. If two boys, or men, committed a gross crime or crimes, ought those boys not to be brought to account for it and punished? This is not in favor of a wide open town. There ought to be some "good" as to be exempt from punishment for wrong doing whether they beat the common path of life or frequent clubs and offend in a more refined way. Justice to all is not favoring a wide open town. Is it denied that the type of our manhood and womanhood is at least equal to that in other cities of the state? Is it denied that Janesville is one of the best cities and best governed cities in the state? Is it denied that its people are as moral, law-abiding and virtuous as the people living in other towns, cities and villages in the state? If the charge that they are not is to stand then no good argument can be made against migrating from the city and no good argument can be adduced to urge new comers here.

Do we desire to build up the city? We should boast to do that, and we should speak well of our city before the public and to the stranger who knocks at its gates.

Respectfully,
J. J. Cunningham.

Has the Home Light Man Called on You?

We expected a fair amount of success in the astonishing lighting campaign now being carried on in Janesville, but the actual results have exceeded our hopes. Many sound reasons contribute to this result, among them being:

- The exceptional value of the Light itself.
- The easy terms upon which it is sold.
- The economy of operation (more than two hours light for one cent.)
- The convenience of the self-lighter (no matches needed.)
- Our utter confidence in the light is displayed by the fact that we guarantee all the parts for three months.
- The man who calls on you installs the Light. Pay him nothing, but ten days after that 75 cents is due. Thirty days later a second payment of 75 cents and thirty days after that a last payment of 75 cents completes the amount, $2.25.
- If the Home Light man has not been to see you and you are in haste ask us to send especially.

Dan McCarty, manager of Willie Lewis, Jack Denning and Joe Jeannette, says that although Tommy Garigan, Cleveland middleweight, defeated Lewis in their recent meeting, he can't possibly hang it on Denning. Jack has milled some of the crack middleweights of the country and his fingers are now itching for Garigan. The pair may be matched before a Cleveland club for a December date.

Dan Morgan, the New York pugilist impresario, is the sort of a manager that any fighter might be glad to have. He's always doing something to advertise Knockout Brown, Jack Britton and his other proteges. Dan's latest stunt is an effort to impress the fight world with the idea that Packey McFarland is afraid to fight Jack Britton. The truth is that Packey would fight Jack in a minute, if there was enough money in it for him.

Only the other day Morgan saw to it that a picture of Knockout Brown was placed with photographs of Mayor Gaynor and Borough President McAneny in a box which was deposited in the inner wall near the mayor's office in connection with renovation work in progress at the city hall.

Charley Brickley, Harvard's brilliant young halfback, has been presented with the football used in the Harvard-Princeton game. It was in this game that Brickley covered himself all over with glory by kicking three goals from the field, one from the 47-yard line. The ball was a highly prized souvenir and like most other mementos was expected to be placed in the Harvard trophy room.

FOREIGN AEROPLANE MOTORS FOUND BEST

Excelled in Military Competitions Held at Salisbury Plain—British Engines of Inferior Merit.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Nov. 16.—British airmen were impressed by the superiority of foreign motors for aeroplanes during the military competitions held at Salisbury Plain in July.

All of the aeroplanes which passed the test and others recommended for awards were equipped with foreign engines. Two of the foreign engines were failures and spoiled the chances of two aeroplanes of British construction, but on the whole the foreign engines were trustworthy and efficient.

The British engines in the competition showed improvement but are not yet capable of equalling the performance of the foreign motors.

The judges report asserts that the importance of establishing first-class British air craft engine works cannot be overrated. It also points out that while there is a natural reluctance to flying in winds of twenty or thirty miles an hour, when there is no object to be gained, such flights can be safely made by most machines of a good type.

That the London business men takes too much exercise is the startling assertion of a physician at the Conference on Hygiene for Business Men recently held here.

The city man is said to be too fond of rushing from the intellectual toil of his office to the strenuous golf links. One doctor stated that this practice is a fruitful source of neuroasthenia. "It is simply draining your nervous system and energy by two taps instead of one," he said. According to this expert there is no relation between the size of the muscles and health.

Most of the delegates preached the simple life for city men, who were all too busy to attend the sessions of the conference.

All of the heavy artillery of the medicine men was brought to bear against the business lunch and the business man was told to either go without it or to drop meat from the midday menu. One delegate drew a gloomy picture of the crowded drug stores in the business districts where the tired office men resort for "bracers."

Yale supporters are asking odds of Harvard backers for the annual championship. Yale money is extremely scarce except where odds are given. The outlook now is that the odds will drop as low as 10 to 7.

Yale has cut out the old-fashioned training table for her football men. Henceforth the members of her elevens will be permitted to eat and drink what no Yale football team ever before dreamed of. The idea is that men will play better football if they live a normal, natural life. This sounds like pretty good sense, and the practice will probably be taken up in other colleges soon.

While all the big teams have been scored on this fall, Yale and Penn State have the least number of points on the wrong side of the scoring column. Yale's goal line is as yet unscathed though Wesleyan, W. & J. and Holy Cross each was able to score one goal from the field. Princeton and Brown crossed Harvard's goal line, while Dartmouth and Harvard each scored a touchdown on Princeton.

Bill Papke's recent crushing defeat of George Carpentier, the French middleweight champion, is said to have put a decided crimp into that gentleman's ambitions. Frank Klaus of Pittsburgh, had served Carpentier with a similar dose, but it was left to Papke, a third-rater in this country, to tear Carpentier's prestige into tatters. Papke's victory virtually means the end of the Frenchman's pugilistic career.

MILWAUKEE GAS RATE HEARING COMPLETED

Company Contends That Rise in Price of Materials Makes Reduction of Rates Impossible.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—Hearing of the petition for a reduction of rates by the Milwaukee Gas-light company came to a close on Thursday after the representatives of the company had laid before the railway rate commission much testimony tending to show that the prospect for a continued rise in prices of all materials and labor would make it impossible for the company to reduce rates and return a reasonable profit on the investment.

It was shown also that the Milwaukee Gas-light company is giving service which it could not give if rates were cut, this service being over and above the standards set by the commission and by other companies in cities of similar size. It was argued by Attorney Edwin S. Mack for the Gas-light company that it should be the aim of the commission to endeavor to insure to the consumer good service as well as reasonable rates.

The testimony relating to the increase in prices of materials was given by R. B. Brown, chief engineer of the company. He submitted testimony showing that it is extremely unlikely that gas coal will ever be as cheap as it is at present. There has been no combination of operators in this field, he said, and the competition up to the present time has been of a "cutthroat" character, which must end in fixing prices that will make it possible for the operators to have a reasonable profit. The price of pipe has risen and the movement among labor men for better conditions is resulting, he said, in the establishment of shorter working hours and increase in wages. The increase in taxes, the addition of larger burdens by reason of casualty liability legislation, the recent doubling of price of crude oil which is used in the manufacture of water gas to help out in periods of heavy consumption, all these elements he said were elements to be considered in a contemplated further reduction of rates.

One of Mr. Brown's charts showed the percentage of increase in living cost, labor costs, coal, rent, insurance, interest since 1885. The lines representing them graphically compared the average increase of all commodities of about 175% with the gradual reduction in the price in the same period to exactly one half of what it was at the time of starting.

Ernest Haase, secretary and treasurer of the company, gave testimony to show the steps that have been taken to increase the efficiency of the service rendered. He said the company has aimed to invite complaints from consumers, even going to the extent of advertising in the newspapers, sending postal cards to patrons, maintaining a corps of eight motor-cycle men to take care of defects in all with the end in view of popularizing the use of gas for heat and light. In this way the total consumption of gas per capita has been brought to more than 7,000 cubic feet per capita whereas the average for the United States is slightly over 5,000 feet. By this popularizing the use of gas he said the number of customers has also increased and made it possible for the company to supply gas at a cheaper rate than if the number of miles of mains and investment in other directions of the same character.

The system of profit sharing which gives employees a bonus of 10% on their salaries was also explained in detail by Mr. Haase. The result he said has been the perfection of an organization which is delivering with the greatest possible efficiency the kind of service that the public demands. The expenditures for inspection of gas appliances, correcting defects in service, the maintenance of equipment to insure a steady supply of gas of high quality could not well be continued with an unwarranted reduction in gas rates.

Sheldon J. Glass, general manager of the company, testified that the assessment placed upon the company property by the city authorities of Milwaukee was more than the appraisal of the commission's engineers made. He supplemented Mr. Haase's testimony relating to service and brought out strongly that whenever it has been possible to do so the company has voluntarily cut its rates, but that present industrial conditions, prices, prospects of curtailed supplies of raw materials, etc., made it extremely inadvisable to make a cut in rates at this time.

City Attorney Hoan offered no testimony, being content to rest his case upon the appraisal of the commission's engineers and certain reports made to the commission by the Gas-light company. A supplementary deposition will be taken next week after which briefs will be submitted. No prediction has been made as to when the findings of the commission will be made public.

TRAINING INFERNO RENOUNCES THE MAT

New York.—Frank Gotch, the world's greatest wrestler, has renounced the mat for all time because of the tortures of training. So declares Trainer Ed Smith, a close friend of the champion. "Dante never harrowed a soul with more frightful ideas of an inferno than Gotch entertains about training," says Smith.

"It's a strange situation but a true one nevertheless. And other athletes who have reached a certain stage after the troublous years of the grind take in much the same strain as does Gotch."

"I met Gotch recently and suggested that he might wrestle again. 'No more for me,' he blurted out. 'Did you ever conceive some hideous idea of Hades? Well, I've got some hideous ideas, too, but they're all about training. The hereafter doesn't bother me so much.'

"Every once in a while I think of the wrestling game and wonder how it would be to start out again. Say, the chills just begin to creep all over me when I fancy those six weeks, or maybe it would have to be eight weeks this time, of work that would be necessary to get me in condition. The tortures of training never will be erased from my memory."

"People say I got my money easy because it was just natural for me to wrestle; well, I have all the natural qualifications. I wish these people knew the truth. It's the hardest money man ever got."

"They are scolding me in some quarters because I don't wrestle Zbystev again. They can keep on scolding. I don't care. I beat him once; don't doubt that I could do so again; but I haven't the slightest inclination to try it. That's final, and I don't care how strong you make it. 'Soon after Christmas we are going out to California. In the southern part of the state I'm going to pick out a little patch of land that isn't too expensive and I'll buy it for a winter home."

"I'll have somebody run it the year round, because in the summer we'll return to Iowa and attend to business there. That's what I call an ideal arrangement."

"Wrestle again and train? Ouch, but it makes me shudder" and Gotch acted as if he meant it."

Puzzling Relationship.
How is a person to become the elder-in-law of her grandmother and the aunt of her own mother? This puzzle has been successfully solved by a young lady, Mlle. Antoinette Grauliere, at Lunas, in the Dordogne. She married M. Stelling-Laumont, of Fleury, and, as he happened to be her grand-uncle and the brother of her grandmother, she thereby became her grandmother's sister-in-law. At the same time she was, according to law, the aunt of her own mother.

TODAY'S EDGERTON NEWS

HIGH SCHOOL PARTY HELD AT EDGERTON

Senior and Junior Classes of High School Entertained Lower Classmen Last Night.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Edgerton, Nov. 15.—The first high school party of the year was held last night in Academy hall. It was given by the senior and junior classes to the sophomore and freshmen classes and all the teachers of the public schools. The affair was an undoubted success and worked out perfectly in every detail. About one hundred seventy-five people were in attendance.

From eight o'clock to ten a program and mock trial meet was offered as entertainment, the program consisting of the following numbers:

Welcoming addresses—Jay Campbell, Lowell Whitte.

Vocal solo—Mary Ellen Wesendonk. Impersonation of teachers by various students.

Mock orchestra.

"The Clanking Hour"—Lulu Scholl. "Fatherly Admonition"—Glen Gardner.

Violin duet—Kathleen Cullton; Leona Post.

After the program the track meet offered a good opportunity for the various classes to exhibit class spirit through the medium of yells, these having been practiced under a cheer leader during the week. The meet resulted in a victory for the juniors, who won 22 points, the freshmen being second with 17.

Following the program dancing was indulged in to the strains of music from Merrill's orchestra. At twelve o'clock the last dance ended, everyone pronouncing the affair a marked success.

Many to Janesville.
The effect of the "Booster week" being held by the business men of Janesville, has been very marked here in Edgerton. Every train leaving for Janesville is crowded with local residents who are drawn by the facts stated by the Gazette, to investigate things being made in Janesville. From reports it seems evident to Edgerton people that the facts have not been misrepresented.

The visitors at the Carlton yesterday were: E. S. Cook, A. A. Peckman, Milwaukee; L. L. Newman, Ashland; G. Langlie, Chicago; J. R. Kahn, Milwaukee; B. Thompson, St. Louis; E. T. ### FLIES FROM OMAHA TO NEW ORLEANS

From Omaha, Neb., to New Orleans by aeroplane is the feat which has just been accomplished by Tony Janani, the aviator. He left Omaha on Nov. 5, carrying a message of greeting from Mayor Dahlman, of that city, to the mayor of New Orleans. Janani's course was down the Mississippi valley.

Terrible Suffering

Eczeema All Over Baby's Body.
"When my baby was four months old, his face broke out with eczeema, and at sixteen months of age, his face, hands and arms were in a dreadful state. The eczeema spread all over his body. We had to put a mask or cloth over his face and tie up his hands. Finally we gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a few months he was entirely cured. Today he is a healthy boy." Mrs. Irene Lewis, Baring, Maine.
Hood's Sarsaparilla cures blood diseases and builds up the system. Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

The world won't care if you quit,
And the world won't whine if you fail,
The busy world won't notice it
No matter how loudly you wail.
Nobody will worry that you
Have relinquished the light and Gone down,
For it's only the things that you do
That are worth while and get you Renown.

You needn't make good, if you don't Think the struggle to do so worth While,
But weep over that the world won't,
For the world will continue to smile.
You can't harm the world by your Pout,
Or refusing to give it your best,
There are too many good men about
Who are eager to face any test.

The quitters are quickly forgot,
On them the world spends little Time,
And few ever care that you're not.
The courage or patience to climb,
So give up and quit in despair,
And take your place back on the shelf,
But don't think the world's going to Care,
You are injuring only yourself.
—Detroit Free Press.

The homely sentiment expressed in this little poem, is so true to life, that it is worth considering.

When the boy leaves school, equipped with all the knowledge of books that he has been able to absorb, and steps across the threshold,
into the busy arena, he imagines that the world is waiting for him to fill a long-felt want.

The first shock comes to his finer sensibilities, when he discovers his mistake, and if wise he takes up the work of preparation, to create the want which he thought already existed.

The generations, as they come and go, are so closely interwoven that there is never any perceptible exodus of the expiring crowd, and seldom an epidemic of new recruits.

The stream which empties into the great unknown, is augmented by a life here, and there, while the tide which makes for destiny is always freighted with an eager throng, ready to take up discarded burdens, at every stage of the journey.

Every year a little army of new recruits float out on the ebb tide, confident that some craft will pick them up and offer shelter and a good position, and never lacking assurance that they can meet requirements.

The university of life differs in many respects from all other institutions of learning. It opens its doors to all comers without regard to preparation or qualifications, and compels attendance, whether we will or no.

It lacks the patience of the home
and the school, and wastes no time on indifferent pupils. The law which governs, in every department is expressed in the simple command:
"Make good or get out," and yet it is a kindly school, with helping hands extended at every turn of the wheel.

A blind boy came into the office
the other day, to call on an old acquaintance. A dozen years ago he was an indifferent student at the State School, and it was difficult to forecast
his future with any degree of certainty. For the last half dozen years or more he has been out in the larger university, with its rough and tumble experience, and has made good.

In speaking of these experiences,
he said: "The world is so different from the home and the school which sheltered me from boyhood to young manhood that it took me some time to get my bearings, and adjust myself
to new conditions, but I have found it a good world, and a great school."
That's a fine compliment, from a boy who is seriously handicapped,
and who might have been excused,
without much cause, had he dropped out of the race early in the game.

Failure in the home means disappointment to the father, who had hoped and planned for the boy's success. It brings sorrow to the heart of the mother whose life was bound up in the boy she loved.

Failure in the school means disgrace and humiliation, but failure in life causes but little commotion, and the hurrying through never turns aside for a word of comfort.

The machinery of life is so planned
that the importance of the individual is seldom considered, and the young man who breaks into it, and becomes a small cog in the mechanism, is often surprised to discover how little consequence he is. It is up to him to make good, and if he fails, the vacancy created by his removal, is soon filled, and the business jogs along without interruption.

The feeling of individual importance is not confined to the boy, for there are many men possessed of the same false notion. Men who have sat at the same old desk, or stood behind the same old counter, for a generation, feeling that their business would go to the dogs, if they were not constantly on hand to attend to it.

These men are not failures, in the sense which the term generally implies, but they fail to get out of life,
both for themselves and the home,
what the good Lord intended them to enjoy, and when they drop out by the way, before their time, the loved ones who mourn are haunted by a memory

of slow suicide.
Death comes as an impartial messenger, to people of high and low degree, and the question of success or failure is not considered. In spite of the heavy inroads caused by the destroyer, the world moves on apace,
and no victim has filed so important a place that the vacancy causes marked disturbance.

Life is a serious proposition, but it is possible to make it too serious, and the little details which annoy, are often not worth the powder. People will be doing business after we are gone; why not give them a chance while we are here? We might be surprised to see how well the boys and girls take hold, and how much better they do some things than we ever thought of doing them.

While it makes but little difference
to the world whether we fail or not it means everything to us, for life is an individual problem, pure and simple. The little circle, where our lot it cast, is our workshop, where destiny may be wrought out, if we will
but even in this limited field but little attention is paid to the man who fails.

The face of humanity is ever toward the front, for the prizes of life are in that direction. The momentum of the eager throng is always an inspiration, and it is easier to go forward
than stand still, or loiter by the way.

The man who sits on the fence and watches the crowd go by, soon becomes a pessimist, and speedily graduates into the class of disgruntled citizens, who spend their time in talking about lack of opportunity, and equal distribution of property.

This old world in which we live, is the best world we know anything about by experience. It is an exacting taskmaster, but a liberal reward-er. It pauses long enough at the grave-side for a word of sympathy, and then hurries away, to bury its own sorrow.

It is a busy world, but kindly with-all and we get out of it all that we invest in good cheer with now and then a dividend for good measure.
Here's a little poem from the British Weekly that is worth pasting in your hat.

Sure this world is full of trouble—
I ain't said it ain't.
Lord! I've had enough and double.
Reason for complaint.
Rain an' storm have come to fret me,
Skies were often gray;
Thornes an' brambles have beset me
On the road—but say,
Ain't it fine today!

What's the use of always weepin'
Makin' trouble last?
What's the use of always keepin'
Thinkin' of the past?
Each must have his tribulation,
Water with his wine,
Life, it ain't no celebration.
Trouble? I've had mine—
But today is fine!

It's today that I am livin'
Not a month ago;
Havin' losin' taken, given,
As the time wills it so.
Yesterday a cloud of sorrow
Fell across the way;
It may rain again tomorrow
It may rain—oh say,
Ain't it fine today!

THE EXTRA SESSION.

Interest in business and manufacturing circles, just now centers in speculation as to whether or not President-elect Wilson will call a special session of congress, immediately after the fourth of March, to consider the tariff question.

The fact that the business of the country had discounted the future
freely, before election, tends to quiet
any disturbing influences which prospective tariff legislation might produce, and while the tariff was lost, as an issue in the campaign, the fact was generally understood that revision downward would be demanded
of the successful party. The argument is advanced that an extra session and prompt action would be better than suspense and uncertainty, and this is perhaps true. Some over-protected industries have created monopolies which are burdensome,
and if these can be regulated it would be a blessing to the country.

While President Wilson will be the president of all the people, he was elected by 42 per cent of the voters who took part in the election. In other words, 58 per cent of the voters
were opposed to the democratic party assuming control of the national administration.

This respectable majority is entitled to consideration, and Mr. Wilson, if wise, will be considerate. The party which he represents does not enjoy the confidence of the people, to large extent, and its elevation to power is due to causes outside of popularity.

The party will be given an opportunity to make good, and its future welfare depends entirely on how it meets responsibilities. The adjustment of the tariff is a delicate proposition because so many interests are involved, and so many localities affected. It is a local issue, pure and simple.

The South demands reduction on everything but cotton and a few industries in process of development.
The West wants farm products and beet sugar protected, and duties on manufactured goods reduced, yet the American people are paying an annual duty of $53,000,000 on sugar to protect the beet and cane growers, who only contribute 14 per cent of the sugar consumed.

The New England states demand a tariff on a large line of manufactured goods, because these states are the nation's great industrial center, and the need of protection is universal.

Thus it is all along the line. The interests of all the people is forgotten
in the desire to protect selfish interests. Of course the broader view of the question takes in American labor,
and this is of vital importance, because it has to do with general prosperity in all parts of the country.

The republican party has long been

OF THE MOMENT
By ROY K. MOULTON.

Learning a la Mode.
In latter days whenever a man finds
that he needs the dough,
He knows that he can get it if he isn't quite a fool.
He sits down and figures out a scheme that's sure to grow,
And then he writes an ad and starts
a correspondence school.

There's no excuse for ignorance in any living man,
You can be taught most anything
that you may turn.
They teach horseshoeing now by mail, the barber trade as well.
They teach you how to run a motorcycle or aeroplane, Hairdressing, manicuring and too
many arts to tell;
They even teach you how to run machines that will make rain.

Short-story writing is a thing they dearly love to teach,
Although they do not teach how to sell the stuff you write,
They tell you how to darn a sock, or
how to make a speech,
They also teach you how to breathe,
to walk, to chew, to bite.

They teach you how to clean straw
hats and make a lot of dough,
Or how to run a trunk railroad and make a million, cool,
If there is anything on earth that would like to know,
Just send your check and leave it to the correspondence school.

From the Hickeyville Clarion.

The last time he was down to the city Uncle Ezra Harkins drank a fancy drink called the "puss cafe" and he says it made him feel real kitten-ish. T. Egbert Peavy has got a new monologue which he wears in one eye, and when his celluloid collar is clean, he looks like a regular jim-stickler of a dude.

Uncle Jabez Handy says the weather office is a liar when it says
there was only two inches of rain last Friday night. He ketched two foot in his makin' five foot that he knows of personally and there was probably a lot more.
This is a weekly paper, but it would be a darn sight stronger if some of the elite members of the local smart set would drop in and settle once in a while. According to the old blue laws, a feller couldn't whistle on Sunday, but Ezra Harkins says it is wiser than that in this burg, for a feller can't even wet his whistle.

Old Man Purdy and our village
president and congenial undertaker, Amos Butts, went to a theatre show down to the city Sunday. The name criticised for its attitude on the tariff,
and President Taft became the target
for all sorts of abuse because he advised conservative and intelligent action in dealing with a question which had so much to do with national prosperity.

President Wilson will assume control, backed by both houses of congress with a party noted for free trade tendencies, but the balance wheel, which should control hasty action, is the 58 per cent majority outside, with minority representation at the seat of government.

Before Colonel Roosevelt attempts to absorb the republican party, it might pay him to consult Colonel Bryan, who has had considerable experience as an absorber. After a dozen years of tireless effort, Mr.
Bryan is back in the fold, and so happy that he can hardly contain himself.

STATE WILL ASSIST IN SETTLING LANDS
Tentative Bill to Promote Settlement of Cut-over Lands to Be Discussed at Conference.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—A tentative bill providing for increased state activity
in promoting the settlement of the cut-over lands of Upper Wisconsin will be presented for discussion before the National Conference of Immigration, Land and Labor Officials which meets in Chicago, November 14th and 15th.

This bill which has been prepared by the Wisconsin State Legislative Reference Library for the Wisconsin
State Board of Public Affairs attempts to provide a method by which the State Board of Immigration may list lands offered for sale by private dealers and assist in securing settlers for these lands. The bill proposes that any owner of land suitable for agricultural settlement may file descriptions of it with the State Board of Immigration and have it advertised
by the board at his expense. Honesty in statements with reference to the land is to be secured by the requirement of bonds to be filed with the State Board of Immigration. These bonds are to be payable to the state in behalf of any settler proven to have been defrauded in the purchase of land from a bonded land dealer. A further safeguard for prospective settlers is found in a provision which authorizes the State Board of Immigration to have soil surveys made of land offered for settlement purposes
when the owner of the land or the intending purchaser of the land is willing to pay the small expense of making the survey.

In addition to authorizing the registration of bonded land dealers, the bill also provides that the State Board of Immigration may actively assist in the prosecution of all persons guilty of fraud or misrepresentation in the sale of land, that it may assist and advise settlers in all ways possible in the development of their farms and the marketing of their products, and that it shall administer with the aid of the State Treasurer and the Attorney General any system of state
loans to farmers which it may be possible to establish in Wisconsin.

of the play was Vaudeville. Purdy said it was pretty fair in parts, but the plot of the piece he ain't got fig-gered out yet.
Hod Peters traded a grindstone, buggy whip, patent whistles, and two joints of stove pipe with Hi Spink
for a corn planter, two bushels of apples, a phonograph and a family bible. Currency ain't needed in these parts. A feller which can eat peas with a knife ain't got no business on a farm. He ought to go into voodoo and get 12 shillin' a week as a juggler.

The Rev. Hanks is busy these days patchin' the parsonage roof with wheat pancakes. If we only had elastic currency a feller ought to be able to buy plenty of suspenders all right.

Miss Pansy Tibbitts has went to West Hickeyville to attend the alumni banquet of her alma mater, the West Hickeyville Female Conservatory. Hank Tunins says a conservatory is where they keep fish,
but Old Man Purdy says Hank is a liar, for a place where they keep fish is an antiquarian.

T. Egbert Peavy stamped the county last week tryin' to sell clothes
wringers, but he came back disgusted. He says clothes wringers is just like kids around here. Every family has four or five.

Appearance.
The gun that isn't loaded is the one that does the harm.
The mule that looks the sleepest,
at kicking can't be beat.
The gal who looks the homeliest kin
keep house like a charm.
The steak that looks the tenderest is always hard to eat.

The man who talks the slickest is the slowest to deliver;
The man who doesn't talk at all is right there with the goods.
The man who talks philanthropy is not the cheerful giver.
The man who boasts of bravery is quickest to the woods.

The loudest prayin' deacon is the poorest one to trust;
The softest talkin' married folks are quickest to divorce.
The fastest goin' friendship is the quickest fer to bust.

The smallest lookin' copper is the bravest on the force.
The feller with the silk hat hasn't got the biggest pie.
The steady fer to housemaids ain't the fairest fer to see.

Don't bank upon a feller who has always got a smile, Appearance ain't always just what they're cracked up to be.

by the State Board of Public Affairs

but it is said by officials of the board that it will be taken up at a meeting of the board to be held in the near future.

Heart to Heart Talks.
By EDWIN A. NYE.

A HEROINE INDEED.
Nature, it seems, has endowed woman with a capacity for suffering beyond that of man. The faithfulness of a frail woman in an emergency, under stress of mind and body, is always a marvel.

There's Mrs. Peter Bourque.
Her husband was the keeper of the lighthouse on Board Rock Island, one of the Magdalen group, Nova Scotia.

During a fierce storm her husband slipped from the rocks and was drowned. Mrs. Bourque, a slight, delicate woman, fought with the sea for its victim and after a heartbreaking struggle recovered the body.

But she was not strong enough to bring the body into the house and was forced to leave it lying on the rocks.
She stood literally between the quick and the dead. Leaving the dead, she must keep the beacon light burning and ring the bell to save the living.

Many times during the four days and nights of this experience she heard the whistles of passing ships; but, warned off by the lights, they sheered away.
Her small children could not attend
the lighthouse while she roved to the mainland, and so the brave little woman stayed at her post, hoping against hope of rescue.

Put yourself in her place.
What stress of anxiety and grief and mourning! And while thus suffering in mind and body one compelling thought was ever before her:

There on the rocks lay the unsepulchered body of her husband demanding Christian burial.
But—

Out ronder on the ocean were ships freighted with precious cargoes. Human lives were dependent upon her light to save them from the peril of the rocks.

Her duty was to the living.
Her endurance had reached the limit. Her supplies were running low,
and her little ones were threatened with starvation.

Nevertheless—
Nerving herself to her task, through blinding tears she faithfully tended the beacon and rang the bell.
Supreme courage—divine courage—
kept her staunch and faithful.

Finally, almost a week after her husband was drowned, the brave guardian of the lights, with her little ones, was rescued by the chance call of a steamer.
Could woman's fortitude and loyalty
further go?

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE

Cooking is a matter which concerns the whole family, and under modern methods and conveniences
it is made so attractive the whole family is becoming interested, if not taking part in it.

"These biscuits are delicious; this cake is excellent," says the father. "I made them," says the daughter, and both father and daughter beam with pleasure.

It is a crime, with our modern agencies,
helps and facilities, to have soggy biscuit, or wooden cake, or leaden pastry.

Royal Baking Powder has made home baking a success, a pleasure and a profit, and the best cooking today the world over is done with its aid.

HENRY GASSAWAY DAVIS ENTERS NINETEETH YEAR
Nominee for Vice President of Democratic Party in 1904. Interested in Success of Grandson.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—Henry Gassaway Davis, who was the democratic nominee for vice president in 1904, entered upon his nineteenth year today, having been born Nov. 16, 1823. Mr. Davis, who makes this city his place of winter residence, probably is the oldest citizen of the United States taking an active part in public affairs and questions. Since the civil war he has taken an active interest in public affairs, serving in both branches of the West Virginia legislature, and for twelve years represented that state in the United States senate,
declining to run for another term.
Just at present Mr. Davis is giving much attention to the efforts of his

QUERY: WILL BRYAN GET CABINET JOB?

W. J. Bryan.

The cabinet makers have all been very busy lately. W. J. Bryan, secretary of state under the Wilson administration. Neither Mr. Wilson nor Mr. Bryan has said anything about it, but the political posters are of the opinion that Bryan, as the foremost man of his party, should have no difficulty in landing a cabinet job if he wants it. Possibly Bryan would rather maintain a position of absolute independence, in order that he may feel free to criticize the Wilson administration at any time should he wish to do so.

EXHIBITION CLOSES AT THE AUDITORIUM

MERCHANTS' AND MANUFACTURERS' DISPLAY WILL BE ENDED TONIGHT.

IS A GREAT SUCCESS

Excellent Results Have Been Received as Result of Exhibition And Attendance is Much Larger Than Last Year.

Tonight the big Merchants' and Manufacturers' exhibition, which has been held at the Auditorium building this week will close, and the booths and exhibits removed to make way for the indoor fair and carnival to be given by the Moose Band next week.

The exhibition has been a great success—far greater than was ever hoped for when the arrangements were being made for it—and the city and the factories located here have been most extensively advertised among the people from the surrounding country for a radius of over a hundred miles. The bargain week has brought hundreds of visitors to the city and few of them have gone away without stopping in the city long enough to visit the various booths while receiving their rebates at the Commercial club's booth.

The record for the week in attendance was established on Thursday night, when there were over twelve thousand people visited the show. The attendance yesterday was almost as large as that of Thursday, but the figures are about a thousand or fifteen hundred under those of Thursday. The difference, however, was but slight, and there were good crowds both in the afternoon and the evening, the most marked difference being in the afternoon, as the numbers last evening were almost as great as those of Thursday evening, when the building was filled at all times.

The total attendance for the five days of this week has thus far exceeded that of last year, the figures for which were thirty thousand, and with today's attendance the total attendance will run far above that of the show of 1911. With the usual crowd of Saturday shoppers coming in from the surrounding country and towns, there should be a larger number present this afternoon and this evening than has been at the show at any time this week.

The Moose band will give its last concert at the exhibition tonight. The band's playing and the music furnished by the Lyric orchestra during the week has been highly appreciated. The program tonight will be made up of popular numbers, requests having been made to the band to repeat some of the music played in their nightly concerts. The program for tonight will be as follows: Rockwell March—Algonquin.....Rockwell Song—"Take Me Back to the Garden of Love".....Osborn Intermezzo—"Raindrops".....Brown Overture—"Spirits of Liberty" Miller Two-step—"Moonlight Bay" Wenrich March—"King Sol".....Dougan Two-step—"Mammy's Shufflin'".....Dance—"Autumn Breezes" King March—"Our Glorious Nation" Miller

ENDED LONG SEARCH FOR A MISSING SON AT LATTER'S GRAVE

Aged Austrian Reaches Janesville Searching for Missing Son to Find Him About to Be Buried.

There is a pitiful story behind the accident and death of John Sperahik, the Austrian laborer, at the Rock County Sugar company, who died at the county hospital on Wednesday last, the first chapter of which has not yet been written until the news of his death reaches his old home in Austria. Sperahik died, it will be remembered, from a fall on the pavement on South Main street. He was taken to the county hospital and only recovered consciousness last Tuesday long enough to tell of his family, a wife and three children, in Austria. He passed away Wednesday and arrangements for his funeral were made to take place Friday morning. An hour or two before the interment of the body was to be made, Mr. Barlass received a telephone message from Poor Commissioner Anderson that two men were on their way to the county farm, believing the dead man was a relative. They arrived at the hospital, a few minutes before the time set for the funeral, and were shown the body. The elder of the two, a man aged seventy, stood with head uncovered, tears streaming down his cheeks, as he viewed the body. He was silent as it was lowered into the grave and the clouds of earth fell on it and it was not until his companion informed Mr. Barlass that it was the dead man's father, did the true significance of the scene just witnessed become known.

John Sperahik left his home in Trebnitz, Trenchia Kombar, Province of Upper Austria, six years ago to seek his fortune in America. He left a wife, Maria, and three children behind him, as well as his aged father. For a time all went well, then letters became less frequent; he did not return; he did not send for his family and they became anxious.

A friend in America was interested in the search for the missing man and he traced him to St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee, Kenosha and then lost track of him. The aged father came to join the search and learned that he had come to Janesville to work. He, with his younger friend, reached Janesville on Wednesday and found the missing man had been here, had been injured, taken to the hospital and died.

It was a sad ending to the long search. The aged father was grief-stricken and the tale he must write to the home in Austria, where a wife and children wait, will be a sad one. But nine dollars was due the dead man at the sugar factory and this is all he left.

He had come to Wisconsin a long journey, a life of struggle and yet the father sought his missing son across the wide expanse of sea and land to find him—dead, and later buried in a pauper's grave in the land he sought riches.

ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO BURN WAREHOUSE DURING THE NIGHT

Oil Soaked Rags and Paper Piled Against Thos. E. Welsh Tobacco Warehouse During Night.

That an attempt to burn the tobacco warehouse of Thos. E. Welsh, 324 West Milwaukee street, during last night, is evidenced by the partially burnt paper and oil soaked rags which were piled against a window, ignited, and would have proven a disastrous blaze, had it not been seen by trainmen before it had more than scorched the woodwork of the window. It was piled up against.

It was shortly after two that the fire departments were notified of a fire by an alarm from box 15. On responding no one directed them to a blaze and even the closest questioning of persons in the vicinity left the call in mystery and it was put down as a false alarm. The department returned to their house and not until this morning did they learn of the disastrous fire that had been averted.

Mr. Welsh had been out of the city for two days and returned from the north on an early train. He stopped at the warehouse to secure his mail and then went home, knowing nothing of the attempt to burn his warehouse and its thirty thousand dollars worth of contents. It was not until he reached the office this morning he learned that the fire had eaten into the woodwork of the window casing and that William Peters, a companion, employed by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Road, had seen the blaze and extinguished it, kicking in the window and pouring several pails of water on the blaze extinguishing it.

Chief Klein was immediately notified and with Mr. Welsh made a thorough investigation of the premises, signs, tacked onto the building, had been torn off, a part of a pile of excelsior near Soverhill's warehouse had been utilized, and bits of oil soaked waste had been put in the pile gathered and set fire to. It had been placed against a window opening into the basement and had it not been seen by railroad men blazing up, would have destroyed the entire building.

State Fire Marshal Purcell was at once notified and an investigation was started this afternoon. Some excellent clues have been obtained and it may be possible that the culprit can be arrested. At any rate a close watch will be kept for some time in all warehouses in the city to prevent any similar attempts.

Mr. Welsh late last week had removed considerable tobacco from the warehouse, adjacent to the window which was fired. The total amount of tobacco stored in the building is estimated at thirty thousand dollars and would have been a loss had not the blaze been discovered when it was.

CHEAPER TOBACCO'S ARE SELLING SLOWLY

Buying Movement Suffers Slump And Many Buyers Are Called In To Strip.
The buying movement, so far as it relates to the cheaper grades of the crop, has suffered a decline since the price reached a 8 cent figure for stemming goods, and a good many buyers have been recalled from the field. Contracts for the better grades too, are not being placed very freely. The following are some of the late transactions:
Geo. Burthe, 12a at 11 1/2, 10 3/4 &c.
Bert Palmer, 6a at 9 3/4 &c.
M. Conway, 8a at 10 1/4 &c.
R. Lykes, 6a at 7 3/4 &c.
Gus Handke, 7a at 7 3/4 &c.
Harry Green, 6a at 7 3/4 &c.
Chris Phillips, 6a at 7 3/4 &c.
John Carlson, 2a at 7 3/4 &c.
Ed Nalen, 6a at 8 &c.
Thos. Stearns, 14a at 7 3/4 &c.
Sid Watson, 5a at 7 3/4 &c.
J. J. McCarthy, 5a at 7 3/4 &c.
R. Pease, 6a at 7 3/4 &c.
The first casing season since the crop was cured came early in the week during which the hanging leaf reached a condition so that some portion of a good many sheds has been taken down permitting a start to be made in stripping. The early crops might safely be taken from the sheds if growers were prepared to care for it at this time.
The market for old leaf shows no new features except there continues an excellent demand for all grades of a binder nature. A few small packings have recently been disposed of by local dealers. Frank Baines, Janesville leaf dealer, sold a 350c lot of 1910 goods. Joe Holton of Pleasant Springs sold a 23c crop of 11 to an Evansville dealer.
The shipments out of storage reach about 500 cases for the week to all points of this market.
A significant feature in the movement of the 1912 crop is that the cheaper end of the crop, purchased for stemming purposes, has brought the highest prices ever known for these grades of tobacco. The price of low grades has been each year gradually creeping up until 7 and 8 cents straight has been freely paid for tobacco that eventually will be turned into stemming stock. Ordinarily fillers, half cut, shed burn and damaged leaf furnishes the stock known generally as low grades that is stemmed for cutting purposes of low figures, but the increasing demand and scarcity of available stock have set a new price for this class of Wisconsin tobacco. Another fact not generally known is that for this purpose Wisconsin leaf is preferred by the manufacturers because of the light character of the leaf which easily absorbs the flavoring used by the scrap manufacturers. Hence there is a reason while the market for "scrap tobacco" was over the Mississippi valley, and the one that was in the Northwest yesterday are now in process of uniting. Together they cover the interior of the country completely, with the exception of a V-shaped depression over Lake Region, which is attended by cloudiness and rain in the vicinity of Lake Superior and Michigan. Elsewhere the weather is generally clear. The clear skies have been favorable to radiation of heat from the ground so that the temperature has fallen, especially in the Ohio valley, and along the Atlantic coast.

MYERS THEATRE

ON this page are presented the announcements of a number of attractions to be presented at the Myers Theatre within the next few weeks. Each one is the best of its class obtainable. A great amount of time and effort has been expended to secure them. Few cities the size of Janesville enjoy yearly such a high class of theatrical attractions as those brought to this city by Manager Myers; few theatres are as safe, as well appointed, as handsomely furnished as the Myers Theatre. It is always easy for a theatre manager to book a list of "shady" attractions and Janesville is indeed fortunate in having presented to it attractions of such high character as those which this announcement contains. The number of high class attractions given here yearly far exceeds that in other cities equal to Janesville in size.

ANALYSIS OF VOTE REVEALS ODDITIES

SHOWS THAT PARTY DISSENSION WON VICTORY FOR WILSON IN ELECTION.

BEHIND CLEVELAND

Former Democratic President Polled
a Larger Vote in Wisconsin
Twenty Years Ago.
(By Ellis B. Usher.)

Milwaukee, Nov. 16.—The details of the election are very slow in coming in because the general result is so plain that the average man dismisses the subject. But some of the politicians, especially those who claim to be democrats and progressives, are amusing, and Wisconsin will illustrate what I mean. The vote here was so light, in proportion to qualified voters, as well as in the aggregate, that it will be found hard to catch even in "off years." The only parties that have gained are the Socialists and Prohibitionists. As a demonstration of "non-partisan" politics Wisconsin is a study. Walworth county, a Republican Gibraltar, gave Wilson 2135, Taft 2066, Roosevelt 1231, Karel 2284, McGovern 2354. In 1892, twenty years ago, Walworth county gave Cleveland 2159, Harrison 3871, Peck 2148, Spooner 3911. The total vote for president in that county twenty years ago was 6030. The Socialist and Prohibition vote is not at hand for this year, but it is doubtful if it will cover the gap of 598. Yet the population of the county shows a small increase. Richland, another rackribbed republican county on the opposite side of the state, gave Cleveland 241 more votes in 1892, than it gave Wilson. Pierce county, in the northwest, gave Cleveland 1210, Wilson 965, Marinette; Cleveland 1994, Wilson 1464. These counties have never gone democratic "since the war." In democratic counties; Dodge gave Cleveland 6810, Wilson 3347. Marathon Cleveland 3791, Wilson 4041. This last county has almost doubled in population in twenty years. Comparisons of this sort might go much farther, but these plainly suggest the facts. Notwithstanding the light vote, and the votes of the La Follette republicans and stalwart republicans for Wilson, the democratic totals are very small. Many stalwart republicans voted for Wilson at the last minute, because they feared Roosevelt. I know a number of them and the La Follette influence was claimed for Wilson all the time by the Milwaukee Journal. It therefore looks as if Mr. Wilson ought to put Wisconsin claimants for office through examination before rewarding any of them. But he may not be particular for much the same things happened in his own campaign. He got fewer votes than there. I have made comparisons with Cleveland merely because of the emphasis given by a lapse of twenty years. Bryan has always polled more votes in Wisconsin than Wilson got, even with republican help. Analyzed broadly, it all means that Mr. Wilson has no party. The republicans, progressives and retrogressives alike, have joined to vote themselves out of power and out of office, in most of the states as well as nationally. They longer they think about it, they watch the procession of their friends file out, the more they are likely to wonder what they have gained by their family hair-pulling. They are sure of four years to think it over, and by that time they will find that most of them are permanently retired by the push of younger men to the front. It doesn't take long. There may be those who do not agree with me that this aspect of progressive politics is funny but there are always fellows to be found who do not like to attend their own funeral. It all brings to mind the address of the Anabaptist to Charles II of England, in which they said: "We have sown the wind and we have reaped the whirlwind. We have sown faction and we have reaped confusion." There's nothing new under the sun.

An Advertisement.
The necessity for labeling the paragraph that follows, an "advertisement" to comply with the law of the last congress, arises from the fact that the Wisconsin Telephone Company employs me to put before Wisconsin people facts of quite as much interest as to the telephone system. This is on the theory that the public is served the best when it best understands the service and no privately owned service comes as near being a popular co-operative organization as the Bell Telephone System. All corporations are, more and more, under the necessity of thus explaining their methods and the publicity that has developed around corporation affairs is I am inclined to think the chief if not the only gain that has resulted to the public from the agitation of the past ten years, and the biggest asset likely to be realized. The public service corporation that wants to do the right thing and courts become publicity because it pays to have its customers satisfied shows the broadest sort of intelligent selfishness. Eight years of employment by the Wisconsin Telephone Company has taught me that, from President Vail down to the managers of local exchanges, there is a firm belief that public good will is profitable and that the better the public understands the telephone business the more use it will make of it. This is only one evidence of the broad "Bell" policy.

Tearing his shirt from his back an Ohio man flagged a train and saved it from a wreck, but H. T. Alston, Raleigh, N. C., once prevented a wreck with Electric Bitters. "I was in a terrible plight when I began to use them," he writes, "my stomach, head, back and kidneys were all badly affected and my liver was in bad condition. I took four bottles of Electric Bitters and made me feel like a new man. A trial will convince you of their matchless merit for any stomach, liver or kidney trouble. General Manager
H. O. Seymour
Seymour is a good example of this development. A Wisconsin man, born at Lake Geneva less than forty years ago, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin law school in 1899, he entered the permanent employ of the Wisconsin Telephone Company in 1903, not quite ten years ago. The past ten years has been the era of greatest telephone development, not only in Wisconsin but in the nation. Mr. Seymour has been a part of it. Seven years ago I remember of writing that the 25,000 miles of toll wire in this state would reach from Milwaukee to La Crosse 125 times. It has almost doubled. It is now 48,940 miles. Then there were 70,000 telephone stations. By January 1st next there will be about 192,000 in the state. The increase of toll line this year will approximate 3,294 miles. For next year a larger increase is planned. These figures suggest the close intimacy of the telephone with everybody's daily life and demonstrate the necessity of constant work like mine to keep the public informed and fully abreast of this marvelous development. Everybody uses the telephone. The Bell system merely provides the pathway over which the public's business travels. The public does the talking and it is more profitable to the company if people find it more convenient to talk than travel.

The appearance here this week of Baroness Von Suttner, who a few years since took the Nobel prize, like "Our Teddy," for promoting universal peace, is an illustration of the necessity that is imposed upon the necessity of these days for cheerfulness and optimism. She is an attractive personality and seems hopeful of her cause, yet, to the groveling mortal who if he finds sixteen ounces in a pound feels fortunate, the spectacle now presented by Europe does not inspire to unqualified belief in the emancipation of mankind from selfishness and cruelty. Italy seemed to have had free hand to drive Turkey out of Africa, and then the Balkan allies were let loose at her. It may be that there is a danger of a general scrimmage in Europe but it may also be that there is some make-believe about it. Unless somebody steps on a fire-cracker that somebody else has mislaid, it looks as if Turkey in Europe would be served up without any cranberry sauce, about Yankee Thanksgiving time, to be sliced up for the great and little bears. Like the Boer War, and the Spanish-American War, and the Russo-Japanese War, all of them since the first gathering at the Hague, the row with Turkey must make the Dove of Peace feel all muddled up.

The building operations in Milwaukee promise to break all records this year with a total exceeding $15,000,000, and like the election returns and the European war news, one has to be careful not to get a lot of misinformation from such figures. I can't get a steel man this week who said: "There's simply nothing to it. We can't get out our shipments as fast as the orders come in." He told me also that prices have been rising until they are up about $9 a ton from the lowest point and well up toward the high point of 1906-07. All that is so, but it is also true that much of this year's big output has been on orders put in last year at low prices, and it will take six months more to realize the profits on present prices. But business is on a conservative basis and will be good this winter.

These profits, if business holds up, will come later on, but the crop is in the way of shipments now, and despite the contradictory rumors, there is a car shortage, and the roads are hanging on to their cars with a grim grip. I see that our former Wisconsin man, President Willard of the B. & O., a member of the commission to arbitrate between the railroads and their engineers, submits a minority report, and that the engineers' representative does the same so the outsiders, one of whom is President Van Rize of the University of Wisconsin, do not seem to have satisfied either side if advance rumors are correct. The railroads insist that they cannot meet the great advance in wages, interest, taxes and cost of material without raising rates. The claim of the roads is that they are physically unable to meet the demands of traffic because they cannot get men enough to handle their business and there the contest rests. The report of the arbitration board may give some new light on the subject, but to an outsider the railroads seem to be embarrassed from both sides at present and it doesn't look like a case of false pretenses. It is too costly to be funny.

Advertisement.
The Wisconsin representative of the Erie Railroad, Mr. H. D. Pheatt, tells me that notwithstanding the road has been embarrassed since the 241 miles of double tracks now going, October's business was ahead of any October in the company's history. Gross traffic for the month reached $5,793,000 or 11% ahead of a year ago and merchandise showed an increase of 14%. Mr. Pheatt tells me that his men bring in reports from about the state indicating that the business men generally are optimistic. He's a democrat so he remembers all those words of cheer. As the end of the season draws near the Erie Railroad Transit line of steamboats is keeping up good business between here and Buffalo. The boats have helped out the Wisconsin business this season and they are doing their share to put the Erie's Wisconsin business on a firm foundation and insure its steady increases. No eastern trunk line is doing so much to cultivate Wisconsin custom as the Erie and it seems to be realizing the appreciation such work merits.

At The Theatre

"FRECKLES."

The dramatization of Gene Stratton-Porter's "Freckles," has proved that there is no end of success to good, clean, moral plays. It is to the credit of A. G. Delamater, he of the "Beverly of Graustark" and other successful plays, who first saw the possibilities of Mrs. Porter's work, and now it stands as one of the substantial successes of the past decade of theatrical history. This is not a surmise, a flimsy prognostication, or the exaggeration of the press agent, but an absolute certainty. It has been tried and a dramatic writer of world-wide reputation has said, like a majority of the critics: "It is fair to prophesy that 'Freckles' will attain a popularity equal to that of the novel," and it will not be out of place to state that the novel has had over a million readers. It has proved the best seller of all the best sellers of the past ten years.

Mr. Delamater has given "Freckles" a perfect stage investiture, and there will be found nothing wanting in the matter of scenery, accessories or cast; it is up to the required standard of a Delamater production, and that should be sufficient. It will be seen at the Myers theatre, next Monday, Nov. 18.

As a love story, it is full of real sentiment; as a story of adventure, it is positively gripping, in fact, in all the elementary features, there is no character or set of characters which have been seen for years so intensely interesting, nor has there been a more beautiful stage picture than "Freckles."

"A MODERN EVE"

This is to be one of the first cities visited by the much-talked-of Mort H. Singer musical success, "A Modern Eve," which will be seen at the Myers theatre, Wednesday evening, Nov. 20.

There can be no doubt as to the marked merit of this Berlin operetta which has delighted music-lovers at the Garrick and Princess theatres in Chicago, where it gained a record of a half a year. Its song hits are already being heard all over the country, and the inspiring waltz song, "Good-bye Everybody," is enjoying a sweeping vogue. The scenes are laid in France during the present time, the first act showing the reception room at the home of the Cascadiers, a very interesting family in which feminine government prevails. The finale of this act presents a wedding scene, so gorgeously consumed that Ashton Stevens of the Chicago Examiner credits Mr. Singer with having "out-Broadwayed Broadway." The second act shows the garden and conservatory at the Cascadier home, and the action culminates in the divorce trial, one of the funniest scenes ever devised. The story centers about the two daughters of the Cascadiers, two ardent suitors for their hands, and the domineering Mme. Cascadier, who would have her daughters rule their husbands as she rules her—dominating baroness, a down-trodden husband, a flirtations judge and gay dancers from the Moulin Rouge also figure prominently in the amusing complications. Among the many song hits to be heard are: "Is the Girl You published a new 100-page bulletin on "The Hematic Implements of the United States," that is profusely illustrated, and a valuable addition to archaeological literature. His large, two volume work, "The Stone Age," is the most comprehensive American undertaking of its kind. He is offering the few remaining copies at a discount. Wisconsin is well represented in the work.

Wisconsin will not be "the only pebble on the beach" when the United States income tax comes along. Thirty-two of the thirty-six states necessary have ratified the constitutional amendment.

It looks as if McGovern's vote was little if any greater than it was two years ago, while Karel got fully 50,000 more than Schmitz received.

The state school teachers want a law to prevent fraternities, yet they still complain that the kids smoke cigarettes. Law is becoming too much of a joke. Statutes never correct bad morals. They punish them. But if the law is silly it has no public sentiment behind it and will not be enforced.

Married Still the "Girl You Love?"
"Every Day is Christmas When You're Married." "Hello, Sweetheart," "Good-bye Everybody." "Won't You Smile." "You're Such a Lonesome Moon Tonight," and "That's the Lesson I'm Teaching to You."

"OTHELLO."

The Coburn Players, a company organized to present the plays of Shakespeare in an entertaining and satisfying manner, will be seen here on Saturday, Nov. 30, matinee and evening, when they will present "Othello."

The plays chosen for this engagement more than any others of Shakespeare's masterpieces, have, as presented by the Coburn Players, besides their great value from an educational standpoint to the scholar, much that is of interest and that is entertaining to the average theatregoer.

The Coburn Players today occupy a unique position in American theatrical history. Some years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Coburn organized the company from prominent actors and actresses, who had been supporting the leading Shakespearean stars. The beginning was characterized by a sincerity of purpose and enthusiasm which has resulted in their being recognized by the press and public as a specialty of productions of Shakespeare and classic drama.

They have now been together for nine years and during that time have played successful engagements in New York, Boston, Chicago and the larger cities, as well as yearly appearances at practically every university and college of importance in the East, Middle West and South.

"THE LITTLEST REBEL."

"The Littlest Rebel," Edward Pele's four-act play, in which Mr. Marshall Farnum is the star, will be presented under the direction of H. Woods, at Myers theatre Wednesday, Nov. 20, in "The Littlest Rebel," which is a Civil War play. The author has made a unique departure from the conventional story of the late unpleasantness. Instead of employing as a central theme the love affair of two persons, one from the North and the other from the South, he has taken for his topic the paternal love of two men, one actuated naturally and the other through sympathy. He has shown that it is not alone the love that exists in opposition to the sexes that will inspire to deeds of bravery, heroism and elasticity of duty, but a far stronger motive can exist when the chord of human paternity is touched. Herbert Cary, a Southern servant, is seen as he is visiting his little motherless daughter who is living alone, hungry and ragged in a rough cabin by the mountain side after the burning of their home.

HOLDS MICHAEL AGGIE A FOOTBALL WONDER

Blake Miller.

According to Ralph Hoagland, former Princeton star, and now one of the best known officials in the west, Blake Miller of the Michigan Agricultural College is the first of the season in football. Miller was the first man to score on Michigan this year. In the DePauw game he got away four times for long sprints to the goal, put off three end runs and received two forward passes which were good for 35 yards each. Other critics agree with Hoagland that Miller is the west's greatest player and about the only candidate this section of the football world will produce for the All-American team this fall.

You Won't Take Cold.

A great many people have the absurd notion that there is danger of taking cold after a Turkish Bath. The fact is that there is less danger of taking cold after a bath than at any other time. This is so because the skin is relieved of its impurities and left in an invigorated and active condition; the body is cooled and the balance of circulation effected by thorough massage. A clean skin, a clear brain, a steady nervous vigor and health—that's the result of the Electric Light and Turkish Bath.

RINGWORM IN RED SPOTS ON FACE

Rough Crust on Top. Continually Worse. Spread Over Face and Legs. Terrible Itching and Burning. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Completely.

Stratford, Iowa.—"Three years ago this winter my seven year old son had ringworm on the face. First it was in small red spots which had a rough crust on the top. When they started they looked like little red dots and then they got bigger, about the size of a bird's egg. They had a white rough ring around them and grew continually worse and soon spread over his face and legs. The child suffered terrible itching and burning, so that he could not sleep nights. He scratched them and they looked fearful. He was cross when he had them. I used several bottles of Bismuth, but nothing helped. I saw where a child had a rash on the face and was cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I decided to use them. I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment about one month, and they cured my child completely. I cannot be thankful enough for it is terrible if a child's face is all broken out as ours was." (Signed) Mrs. Barbara Prim, Jan. 30, 1912.

Cuticura Soap is best for skin and hair because of its extreme purity, delicate yet effective medication, and refreshing fragrance. It wears to a water and gives comfort and satisfaction every moment of its use for toilet, bath and nursery. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere. Sample of each free, with 2¢ p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston." *Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25¢. Sample free.

Municipal Affairs Of Vital Interest

MUNICIPAL NOTES—MAY UTILIZE SEWAGE—Santa Clara, California, May Decide To Adopt System Followed in European Countries.

Santa Clara, Cal.—The sewer problem of Santa Clara will be solved if the plan, presented and now being carried out is successful. The Board of Town Trustees, has decided to divert the sewage from Cuadalupe creek, and it will be used by farmers and growers of alfalfa. Several agriculturists have already asked for the sewage which will be furnished to them free as it comes from the septic tanks. Whether a sufficient number of farmers may be procured to use the fertilizer is the only question in the minds of the Santa Clara town authorities. Dr. William Simpson, County Health Officer, declares that the scheme has been successful elsewhere. The proposed change will be made immediately, and workmen busy flushing the tanks and filter bed and placing the sewer system in a more sanitary condition. It is stated that sewage which has gone through the septic tanks provides excellent fertilizing matter for alfalfa patches or any other variety of agricultural growth. "The time will come when all this sewage will be saved," said R. B. Roll, president of the Santa Clara Town Board. "In some of the old countries it was considered a great waste to throw sewage away. It is the main fertilizer of many of the countries of southern Europe, where the people excel in husbandry." This will remove the trouble at the Clark Mills Dam, but the effluent from College Park septic tanks will still empty into the creek. It has been suggested that College Park pursue the same course as Santa Clara in the event that the latter is successful. Municipal Journal.

ROCKFORD MAN PROPOSES TAX ON TELEPHONE POLES.

If Rockford has a legal right to pass an ordinance establishing a tax on poles such action will be taken provided that Alderman Halldan, the socialist alderman from the third ward, has his way. Alderman Halldan has taken the first step toward securing the ordinance by introducing a resolution instructing the city attorney to prepare it. The legality of the ordinance will be investigated first.

"A tax on all poles of the car company, electric company and the telephone and telegraph," will help to do away with the pole nuisance, which we have been hearing so much. It will also provide the city with a new source of revenue, which at this time seems to be needed.

"Such ordinances have been adopted in a number of cities, notably Springfield. There the public utility companies carried the matter to the courts, but the city was sustained, its right and power to tax poles in its streets was upheld."

SANDSTONE COMPANY OFFERS TO PAVE ONE BLOCK FREE.

(Madison State Journal.) A proposition to pave a block of city streets, here with sandstone from the Milwaukee Sandstone company's quarry at Ableson, at the expense of the company was submitted to Mayor Helm, a representative of the company yesterday.

This offer comes as the result of an effort on the part of the mayor to find a substitute for a granite top dressing to be used on a steep grade where there is a heavy traffic. The granite top dressing has proved too hard and slippery to the hoofs of horses. It is claimed that the sandstone will wear as well and is better for the horses. It is probable that a block of the pavement will be laid on West Main street at the expense of the company and if the experiment works out well it may be adopted for other streets next year.

STERLING PUBLIC LIBRARY TO BE MADE SOCIAL CENTER.

A movement has been inaugurated whereby the Sterling, Illinois, public library will become the social and educational center of the city. The work will be known as library extension. At the last regular meeting of the Library Board a committee representing the new movement appeared before it by invitation and submitted a plan for weekly public meetings to be held in the assembly room in the basement of the library building. After the plan was explained and fully discussed the members of the board fully endorsed it and appointed a committee to co-operate with the citizens' committee. The work will be inaugurated with a story telling hour for children. Evening meetings will be held for grown people at which able speakers will talk on interesting books on the library shelves and important topics discussed in the magazines.

NEENAH WANTS TO OWN ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT.

Neenah, Wis.—A movement has been started toward the erection of a municipal light plant and system in Neenah. Mayor Clark is to appoint a committee of citizens and aldermen to secure estimates on the cost of erection and equipment.

Antigo Votes to Buy City Waterworks Plant.

By a vote of 1,288 to 302, the city of Antigo has voted to purchase the city waterworks plant and system. The city has been engaged in controversy and litigation with the waterworks company for many years past. All milk men in Antigo have been warned by the city health officer not to remove any bottles or utensils from a house that is under quarantine.

FLUSHER STREET CLEANING IS FAVORED IN STERLING.

(Sterling Gazette.) The business streets of Sterling, and most of the paved residential streets, were kept clean this year by a street flusher. Some people declared that it would not be a success, and that it was another "hook and ladder truck." However the flusher proved an unequalled success. Stealing streets were never kept cleaner and neater than during the season of 1912. People who prophesied that a flusher could not be used on sand filled paved streets, were also disappointed. Many people are so well pleased over the success of the investment, that they believed that the city should extend this branch of the street cleaning department. Mayor McDonald and the city council deserve congratulations in the splendid manner in which the streets of the city were cleaned after the arrival of the flusher.

A number of years ago the city purchased a hook and ladder truck. Later the city purchased a pump from C. J. Bressler and still later the city purchased a hand street sweeper. All three of these purchases have been relegated to that department of city called "Stung Again." But the street flusher declares the business interests, has proved an unequalled success, therefore it does not belong in the "Stung Again" department.

CITY OF BEAVER DAM GETS CHEAPER WATER.

The city of Beaver Dam and citizens receives its water supply from the Beaver Dam Water Company. The Beaver Dam authorities and the civic league complained of the rates and the railway rate commission has just made an order which will be readily understood. The order provides for a change of 14 cents per 100 cubic feet for the first 100 cubic feet and 32 cents per 100 cubic feet for the next 400 cubic feet per quarter. One hundred cubic feet equals 750 gallons or in other words 15 cents per thousand gallons for 4000 gallons or more per quarter.

HEADACHY, BILIOUS, UPSET? "CASCARETS"

Bilious, Throbbing Headache Means Bowels are Clogged and Liver Stagnant—You Need Cascarets.

You're bilious, you have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, with dark rings under your eyes, your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and intestines can be quickly cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

RAGTIME.
(By Howard L. Rann.)

(By Howard L. Rann.)

Ragtime is a form of peg-legged music which has seized the American people by the feet and caused the music critics to throw off bright brimstone sparks. It is a cross between half on a tin roof and a buck and wing artist with the St. Vitus dance.

Ragtime is a series of musical characters, no two of which hit the ground at the same time. It is played with a hop, skip and jump, averaging about twelve hops to the measure, and is about as easy to dance as a kettle drum solo.

Ragtime was invented about ten years ago by somebody who discovered that by taking an old Italian aria and running it through a feed-chopper a very weird effect could be produced. Some of these effects are so weird that people who are fond of classical music would just as soon listen to a duet between an accordion and a bagpipe.

Probably nobody has made more money out of ragtime than a French acrobat named Debussy, who gathered most of his material by attending negro cakewalks. Nobody pretends to understand what Debussy is trying to say, as he writes mostly for the black keys and breaks out in a new kind of tempo every few minutes. No one but the critics for the New York, Boston and Chicago papers can listen to a program of Debussy music without winding up in a padded cell or calling feebly for ice water.

Ragtime music is made in several different styles of body, on one chassis, and is sold in cakewalk lots to department stores, which retail at 10 cents per copy, to throbbing customers who are passionately fond of music. No one who has ever heard the stately, stappings of a ragtime march, torn from the parched throat of a discouraged phonograph, will confuse it with the knee action of the Kneisel Quartet.

People stick up their noses at ragtime in public, but have to give up when it attacks them in the soles of their feet, where the musical faculty is located in most of us.

The Evening Chit-Chat

THE FOLLY OF MAKING ENEMIES.

ONCE upon a time a young woman had unintentionally offended a friend of hers. Another friend went to her, told her how she had antagonized their mutual friend and urged her to explain matters and win her friend back.

The young woman refused.

Finally the peace-maker said, "But aside from all other considerations Mrs. R. is an influential woman. She is valuable to have as a friend." "What do I care?" said the obstinate one. "I am going away from here in a few weeks, and shall probably never see her again."

She went away. Ten years afterwards she came back, a widow and penniless, to earn her living in the town she had never expected even to visit again. And she found that the position of librarian which she hoped to obtain was practically in the gift of the woman whose friendship she had said she would never need.

Yes, she got the position, but only because the woman she had antagonized was one of those rare souls who are willing to pass by the false and tawdry glitter of vengeance for the real solid gold of self conquest.

Now it seems to me that there are a great many people who, like this woman, are careless how they lose or antagonize their friends when they think they will not need them again.

How selfish and cold hearted and mercenary this is, I don't need to say. But what I want to point out is that, ethical considerations entirely aside, it is never wise to throw away a friend no matter how far apart you think your paths will lie. The whirl of circumstances that sends us willy nilly hither and thither, may bring you close together in a month. And no matter how unimportant he seems, some day he may be quite as necessary to you as the little mouse was to Aesop's lion.

Besides there is another point of view which an experience of a friend of mine illustrates. He once applied for admission to a desirable club and was promptly blackballed; and this was the reason: His cousin had once belonged to that club, and just before his departure to another city had gotten into trouble with the club's officers. Feeling that he wasn't going to be there any longer, and so it didn't matter, he had thoroughly freed his mind to them. The resulting antagonism made trouble for this cousin of whom he happened to be very fond.

When you antagonize anyone you start circles of trouble which reach distant shores. It may be you and it may be someone else whom you wouldn't injure for the world who will suffer.

When it is necessary to antagonize anyone in order to stand firm for a principle in which you believe, do so; the consequences will take care of themselves. But otherwise don't do it, it doesn't pay.

The Old Paper-carrier

HE is a little wisp of a man with thinning gray hair, and he delivers papers in a small suburban town, and does any other odd jobs he can get. He looks as if he rarely had enough to eat, and his clothes are shabby and threadbare. But he is always pleasant, always courteous, and always grateful for any work given him, no matter how hard and taxing it may be.

One day when he was collecting for the paper, he looked rather longingly at the piano in the prettily furnished hall of a little suburban home, and asked wistfully, "Could I play on your piano for a little while?"

The mistress of the home was somewhat amazed at the request, for playing a piano was the last thing one would expect this old, bent paper-carrier to do. But she granted his wish.

He sat down at the instrument, and from his work-worn fingers came snatches of grand opera, of fine symphonies, of dreamy pastorales, of dainty minuets, and of other of the great compositions of the great masters. She stood amazed, as one after another poured forth from the instrument, played sympathetically, delicately, feelingly.

The old paper-carrier was lost to his surroundings. He played on and on, and with a start, as if coming from a far country, that he stopped when she said:

"I didn't know you played."

"I studied music for ten years when I was young," he replied.

"I lost a fine position," he went on, "to hear twenty thousand Knights Templar march down Broad street, playing and singing 'Onward, Christian Soldiers.' I guess that was my mis-step. But I don't regret it. I wouldn't have missed that for anything. My boss told me I couldn't go, and I said I would. I went. And I lost my job. I couldn't get anything to do for a long while. And then I took up paper-carrying, and I've been at it ever since."

"It's a great pity you couldn't have kept on with your music. You would have made a living at it in time."

"Yes, perhaps. But you see, I had three small children. And I had to work at what I could get. I suppose I ought to have been a teacher of music instead of paper-carrier." He smiled a little sadly. "But that's the way it goes. Only, sometimes, I get so hungry for music, I just must play. There's a family down the street who let me come there in the evenings sometimes and play."

"You are welcome to come here and play whenever you want to," said the woman.

"Thank you," he replied.

Then he took his shabby old hat and went on up the street.

And the woman, as she watched him, thought how little would any one dream of the passion for music and of the power to exquisitely express it that was shut up in the bowed figure of the poor, old paper-carrier.

Thanksgiving Recipes.
Thanksgiving Ham—Take medium-sized ham, soak 10 hours, cut away rusty parts underneath, wipe, ham dry and cover over thickly with a paste made of flour and water. Place ham in earthen dish, set over moderate heat, and roast four hours. When done remove ham, garnish with cut vegetables. It's ham fit for a king.

NEGLECT THE CARE OF YOUR SCALP AND YOUR HAIR WILL BECOME A DISGRACE

The hair is more exposed and hence more liable to accumulate dust and dirt than any other portion of the body.

In spite of this the hair receives, as a rule, the least attention and no real effort is made to keep it healthy.

If the dandruff germ is allowed to work unmolested and the scalp becomes crusted with dirt accumulations, one may expect the hair to fall and fall out. There is no cause for surprise in this phenomenon; it is natural and happens in every instance where the care of the hair and scalp is overlooked.

The one sure remedy which prevents the loss of hair and permits a healthy, luxuriant growth is found in

into squares when cold.
Thanksgiving Pudding—Soak one pint fine white bread crumbs in one quart milk for 15 minutes. Beat until light the yolks of five eggs and one-half pint sugar; stir in tablespoon butter, add just a little grated rind of lemon, two tablespoons lemon juice and teaspoon of vanilla; add these to the milk and bread. Mix and add half pint grated coconut. Bake in pudding dish until custard is set in the middle. Beat whites of eggs to stiff froth, add five tablespoons powdered sugar, beat until white and fine. When pudding is done cover thickly with coconut, heap over the meringue, dust thickly with powdered sugar, brown in oven. Serve cold.

Mince-meat for Thanksgiving and Christmas—It is now time to make mince-meat for Thanksgiving and Xmas pies, so as to have it in good condition. Take three lemons, one pound suet, one pound currants, one pound blue raisins, two pounds apples, 1 1/2 pounds sugar, one nutmeg. Pare rind from lemons (taking none of the white part), put into pan with water to cover, boil 15 minutes, drain off water and chop rind very fine. Chop suet very fine. Pare core and chop apples, fine. Stone and chop raisins. Mix these ingredients very well and add sugar, lemon juice (strained), the currants (washed, dried and picked), and the nutmeg (grated). When thoroughly mixed, put into jars and cover. Very good.

The Kitchen Cabinet

A FRIEND in need, my neighbor said to me, "I need a kitchen cabinet. A friend in need is what I mean to be. In time of trouble I will come to you. And in the hour of need you'll find me true."

WHAT TO EAT.

Let us see what we can do with these inexpensive dishes to make an attractive meal. We are paying now for the cheapest cuts of meat what we paid a few years ago for the best, and it behooves us to use wisdom in buying any of the high-priced cuts.

Savory Stew.—Pieces of tough and otherwise impossible meat may be made tender and tasty by long, slow cooking. The stone dish or casserole has made a great difference in our meat bills where it is commonly in use.

Cut a round steak into cubes and roll each cube in seasoned flour. Put into a frying pan a little fat and fry a minced onion in it until a light yellow. Lay in the meat, fry for five minutes, cover with cold water and simmer on the back of the range for two hours. Season with salt and pepper, add a half teaspoonful of Worcester-shire sauce and a tablespoonful of catsup. Serve hot with boiled rice or mashed potato.

Bread and Cheese.—This bread and cheese will be followed by kisses if the recipe is carefully followed. Grease a pudding dish and put into it a layer of slices of stale bread; on each slice place a thin slice of American cheese. Beat one egg very light, stir it into a pint of milk, salt slightly and pour the milk over the bread and cheese. Set into the oven until browned lightly, and serve with a dash of cayenne. Serve hot. This is a nice dish for supper.

Coffee tapioca pudding is a simple dessert. Pour over a cup of softened tapioca a pint of left-over coffee. Cook until clear and serve hot with sugar and cream.

EDISON ON BREAD.

"The French bread struck me as particularly good," says Mr. Edison, "and I ate a great deal of it while in the country. The French are wiser than we in not seeking to make their bread dazzlingly white by sacrificing the nutritious parts of the wheat." The bleaching of white flour is now prohibited, but the popular impression remains that the finest white flour is the best. I have frequently called attention to the superiority of the flour made from the entire grain of the wheat. If this cannot be obtained (and genuine whole wheat flour spoils quickly), the wheat should be obtained from a mill, or from a farmer and ground as needed in the home. If there were a sufficient demand for wheat it could be supplied by a grocery more easily than potatoes or apples, because it keeps better.

New York's Indebtedness.

New Yorkers are the biggest borrowers in the world; at least they are so collectively, for the city owes seven times as much as any other city in the country and more than one-half as much as the largest twenty-seven other cities in the land.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I was married when I was not quite 15. My husband is 15 years older than I am. He is a drinking man and won't give me any money. We live on a farm. I get a few eggs and a little butter and he expects me to run the house, clothe myself and the child (who is six years old) and also buy his clothes out of that. If I can't do it, and ask him for a little money, he abuses me and the child. I work out when I can and have bought our house furniture.

If I leave him and get a divorce, can I compel him to give me the furniture or would I have to give him half? Would I be doing wrong to get a divorce after I have tried seven years to get along and he gets worse all the time? He goes away for three and four days on a drunk and I don't know where he is and when he comes home his money is all gone.

TROUBLED MOTHER.

I hope all the young girls who think they are in love, will read this letter. It shows plainly the kind of a marriage a girl is apt to make when she is too young to know the difference between the kind of man who will make a good husband and the kind who will make a bad husband.

The wife seems to have sufficient cause for divorce. If she can support herself and the child, she will be better off without such a husband. Undoubtedly a court would award her alimony, though how much I could not say—it would not be sufficient to support a woman and a child, at any rate, and there might be difficulty in collecting it. The judge would also decide any division of property. Some judges are very kind to a woman in such a case, but one cannot always depend upon finding a kind judge.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please tell me if I ought to have done differently and what I ought to do now. There was a girl recently married that I thought liked me and I loved her well enough to want her for my wife. Two years ago she got acquainted with a man who had just come from the old country. He was her stepmother's brother. He wanted to marry her but her father said he must learn to speak English first.

He went to school to learn English and about two months ago I heard they were engaged. I asked the girl if it was so, and she said it was but she was afraid. I asked her if she liked him and she said that in a way she did. It was afraid to say any more after that. I thought that a girl that was engaged wanted to keep away from other men, so I did not tell her I loved her.

When she was married, I heard that her father carried her to the altar and she sobbed through the ceremony. They say it was more like a funeral than a wedding.

Ought I have had an understanding with her? What can I do now?

B. J.

You can do nothing now. It would have been better to have told her how you felt, even if she was engaged. If she had wanted to change, she had the right to then; but she hasn't now.

A Milwaukee coal dealer telegraphed to a gentleman of this city, yesterday, an appeal for an ox yoke, to be sent by return mail, or sooner, if possible. It seems that the horses of the Cream City are taking an epizootic vacation and the gentle bovine has been beguiled from rural pastures to perform equine tasks. But Janeville was out of ox yokes years ago and a diligent search discovered not one of these ancient contrivances. One was found, however, a few miles out of town, stowed away among the belongings of a well to do farmer's family and it was borrowed for the use of the Milwaukee man till his horses are ready for duty.

Sylvia Spankenhurst.

It was indeed a busy day for Mrs. Sylvia Spankenhurst. Clutching proudly in her hand the document which signified that she had at last been elected president of the Society Spentation Croolity, Taimalms, she paced the length, to say nothing of the breadth, of her fair city looking for trouble.

At 9:30 A. M. she had a black green grocer pinched for subjecting five young heads of cabbage to the broiling sun.

At 11:45 A. M. she gave a stout butcher a terrible talking for hanging all his frankfurters on one hook.

At 2:50 P. M. she warned two little boys against ever again cruelly tying their kite strings to a fence, and leaving the innocent kites struggling in midair while they went for lunch.

At 4:30 P. M. murmuring to herself, "Well, I have certainly done my duty by the animal world, this day," she purchased the feathers of three slaughtered nightingales and four murdered penguins to wear in her new lecture hat.

IT'S RISKY

IT'S A BIG RISK to hold an auction sale unless it is well advertised. You put up $2000 worth of property for sale; maybe it will bring $2000; maybe $1500; maybe less.

It's up to you.

It all depends upon how well you advertise it. One that is thoroughly advertised cannot help but be a success. Almost every sale that is advertised in the Gazette brings more than the proprietor expected.

You can save a few dollars by trying to get along with a few bills or running a small ad in a paper with little circulation, but how about results? Will you find that you have saved anything when you count your money at the close of the sale?

Dare you take chances on $2000 worth of property to save a few dollars at the outset?

The Lady of the Mount

by FREDERIC S. ISHAM
AUTHOR OF "THE STROLLERS" UNDER THE ROSE
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WATERS

After that, a change, subtle but deep-rooted, came over the Governor, a silent man always, now his taciturnity became more marked. Under stress of untoward circumstances, all the guests at the Mount, save the young noble, departed; but his Excellency appeared hardly to notice their going; drawing his cloak of reserve closer about him; seemed only to ask for that solitude, not difficult to find in his aerial kingdom. Sometimes for a long while he would stand in the cloister, gazing seaward; again wander in the church, look at the monuments, always to pass one of them quickly. Only on a single occasion, when the Marquis, who was daily becoming more nervous, sought him, with a favorable report of his prisoner-patient, did the Governor give sign that he neath this apparent apathy yet stirred malevolence and rancor.

Toward This Monument of Man's Conquest Rode a Band of Horsemen.

"Yes, yes," he returned, a spark of ill-concealed venom in his glance; "he is doing well, no doubt! I am sure he will do well. But well or ill, I wish to hear no more of him! No more, Monsieur le Marquis!" His voice vibrated; surprised, the kinsman of the King stared, then stiffly turned away.

So matters stood, when one day, alone in the cloister, his Excellency was disturbed by a rough-looking fellow who brought a letter and said he would await the reply at the tavern in the town.

Deliberately the Governor took the missive, tore open the envelope, and surveyed the small bit of paper it contained. Whatever the brief message told him, his Excellency's face did not change, and he was still coldly, carefully studying sentences and words, after his fashion, when through the door my lord, the Marquis, stepped in some haste. Lifting his eyes, the Governor made no difficulty in reading the question on the young man's countenance. For a moment they looked at each other, and then the long, white fingers of his Excellency again sought the letter.

"They," his voice seemed to, clip the words, "propose an exchange of prisoners, and give me three days to consent to it!"

CHAPTER XXX.

A Sound Afar.

About midway in the curve of one of the numerous bays, marking the coastline, and several hours distant from the Mount, stands a stone cross erected by an English marauder to indicate the place of his landing. The symbol is visible on all sides from afar, for before it are the sands and the sea, and behind stretches the land barren of wood—low, level, covered only with marsh grass. Toward this monument of man's conquest—most prominent object in a prospect, dreary and monotonous—rode, late one afternoon, a band of horsemen. At their head galloped my lord, the Marquis; in the center could be seen a man with bound arms whose horse was led by one of the others. This person—a prisoner, thin, haggard, yet still muscular then straightening, looked at the Black Seigneur whose eyes yet burned in the direction my lady had gone. With a start he seemed to recall himself to the demands of the moment; his first questions they expected; the ship—where did she lie? Snug and trim in a neighboring cove, ready to slip out, if occasion required and danger pressed—which contingency they did not just then expect, since at the moment was his Excellency more concerned with affairs on the land than matters pertaining to the sea. What these paramount interests were, the young man, on whose thin cheek now burned a little color, did not at once ask; only gazed ingenuously over the group, where one, whom he might have expected, was absent.

"Sanchez—he is not with you?" "No, he's with the people, I expect. You see," he went on, "things have been happening since you elected to enact the mountebank. The bees have been busy, and this little hive they call France is now full of bother and bustle. The bees that work have been buzzing about those that don't; they made a great noise at Versailles, but the King Drone only listened; did not try to stop it, fearing their sting. They hummed at the door of the Bastille, until the parasite bees, not liking the music, opened the doors, let them all in—"

"The Bastille has fallen?" The listener's voice rang out; his eyes, searching sharply the features of the bard, seemed to demand only the truth, plain, unadorned. "It has," answered the other gravely. "And the tune sung in and around Paris has kept on spreading until now it is everywhere! You may hear it in the woods; along the marshes; over the strand! The very Mount, immovable, seems to listen. When will the storm break? Today? Tomorrow? It needs but a word from Paris, and then—"

The poet broke off, and silently the Black Seigneur seemed to be weighing the purport of the news; for some moments stood as a man deep in thought; then, arousing himself, spoke a few words, and gave a brief order. Swiftly the riders swept away in the direction from which they had come, and only when they had gone some distance did the young man once more turn to the poet with a question. Whereupon the latter, spurring his horse nearer his chief, launched into eloquent explanation.

"And then," ended the bard, "the Governor's daughter walked into our ambush as unsuspectingly as a mouse into a trap!"

"The Governor's daughter cozened by Nanette?" "That she was! A clever wench and a brave one, Nanette! Although," the poet's jovial eyes studied the dark face, "unless I am mistaken, she found the task to her liking!" "You treated her, the Governor's daughter, well?" said the other abruptly.

"Gave her your cabin, mon capitaine, where," chuckling, "she ruled like a despot. Not once did she whimper, or beg favor for herself! For the Marquis, it is true, she did plead that day we took them!"

"He's her betrothed!" said the young man shortly. "A. marionnette!" glibly the poet. "Some of the men were for making short shrift of him, and they might have—only for her!"

"They will soon be safe enough together now!" remarked the Black Seigneur. "Again a peculiar, half-questioning expression shaded the poet's eyes, while furtively he regarded the young man. "Yes, they ought to be!"

"The terms of exchange—what were they?" "You for her! That was our demand. After the place had been agreed upon, his Excellency asked to name the hour, and further interjected a condition, binding both parties to secrecy in the matter, that the people might not know. They acted badly when the soldiers returned to the Mount without his daughter; they might behave worse, no doubt, he thinks, when they come back with her."

"So will she be safely returned in the darkness! A wise provision!" "That," murmured the poet, studying the horizon, "was evidently his thought. But," as the Black Seigneur, relaxing his pace, drew rein at a fork in the pathway, "yonder lies our cove, mon capitaine, and—"

"Do you and the men go there!" commanded the other, and gave a few further instructions. "See that the ship is kept in readiness!" he ended. "As for me—"

He made a vague gesture. That evening found the Black Seigneur in the Desaurac forest; where, as a boy, he had fled for shelter, now some instinct, or desire he did not strive to analyze, drew him. As slowly he made his way through the wood, on every hand familiar outlines and details, seen vaguely in the last light of day, invited him to pause; but without stopping he moved on to the castle, and up to the chamber, where Sanchez, returning from America, had found him, a vagabond lad. Through the window the same unobstructed view of the Mount dimly unfolded itself in the dusk, and for some moments he regarded it—august, majestic, glowing its heart's black secrets with specious and well-composed bearing! As he looked, there, suddenly came to him the remembrance of another impression; the same picture, seen through the eyes of a boy—standing where he was now! Then had the Mount seemed a marvelous series of structures, air-drawn, magical—home of a small and fairy-like creature, with hair of shining gold. Dusk turned to night; in the distance the Mount vanished, and through the break in the forest only the stars twinkled.

Then lighting his fire, the young man sat down at the side; with faculties alert, listened to the wind; looked at the flames. Stereotyped Answer. The Professor—And to what is the cause of the fire which destroyed ancient Rome attributed? The Student (promptly). To the careless handling of a cigarette. The Professor—En! Why, there were no cigarettes at that time! The Student (hopelessly).—Well, I never heard of a fire starting from any other cause.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Swiss to Have National Park. Switzerland is to have a national park similar to the Yellowstone National park. On the border of Italy, at the foot of the Piz Quatrevals, is a section, including the Chucosa valley, that is rich in botanical and geological wealth, and that has high altitude, healthful climate and beautiful scenery. It is proposed to reserve this for park purposes, and as the region has legendary and historic associations of great national interest, the people generally favor the plan.

"I am the greatest man in the world," he said to himself; "the wisest sage, the biggest financier, and captain of industry; I hold all the records from the hundred-yard dash to the marathon; my wife is the best-dressed woman in the world; I am the best-dressed man. Gadzooks, I am too good to be true; I will eat of the fruit of the tree of life!"

WOMEN SHOULD BE PROTECTED Against So Many Surgical Operations. How Mrs. Bethune and Mrs. Moore Escaped.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like a god. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl!"—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Murrayville, Ill.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a very bad case of female trouble and it made me a well woman. My health was all broken down, the doctors said I must have an operation, and I was ready to go to the hospital, but I dreaded it so that I began taking your Compound. I got along so well that I gave up the doctors and was saved from the operation."—Mrs. CHARLES MOORE, R. R. No. 3, Murrayville, Ill.

D. W. WATT Talked Circus Days With Joe Jefferson, The Actor

If one's story travels many strange personages are met and become intimate acquaintances. David W. Watt, in his years of circus life, had rare opportunity of meeting famous men and women. His fund of recollections of these events prove most interesting milestones in his life's history.

Today the great Joe Jefferson is but a memory to the majority of theatergoers but he was one of the great actors of the stage for a half century and it is to be doubted if any other one man will ever take his place. Mr. Watt met him and spent many hours in company on one occasion and the following story of this memorable meeting is to do as only Mr. Watt can tell it.

(Copyrighted)
In the fall of 1885 the Forepaugh show crossed the season at Norristown, Pa., which is about 20 miles west of Philadelphia on the main line of the Pennsylvania road. The limited train in those days left Philadelphia at 10:45 P. M. and was scheduled to leave Norristown at 11:15 for the west.

I was anxious to get this train for Chicago so settled up my season's work and took this train for home. There were but few dining cars in those days and the train stopped at Altoona, Pa., for breakfast at about 7:30 in the morning. The Logan House at Altoona was known to be one of the best hotels on the entire line between Philadelphia and Chicago so everybody was up and ready for breakfast.

The hotel stood about a block from the depot and when I got ready to get off the car, an old gentleman was with me and after helping him down out of the car I said to him: "Uncle, I will go ahead and turn up a chair for you in the dining room." He thanked me and soon was sitting by my side at breakfast. After breakfast and while we were settling with the landlady I called for a cigar and the old gentleman said: "Never mind, my son, we have plenty of cigars in the car."

We returned to the sleeper together and up to this time I had no idea who my newly made friend was. He opened a valise and took out a box of fine cigars and said to me: "How far are you going?" I said: "I am going to Chicago and from there to Janesville, Wis."

The next question was, "What is your business?"

I said to him that I had been with the Forepaugh show the past season and we had closed at Norristown, Pa. "Well, well," said the old gentleman: "We should pass a pleasant day between here and Chicago for I am in the show business myself." He said: "My company opens at McVicar's Theatre in Chicago, for two weeks, Monday evening." Then he told me who he was and 'twas no other than the great Joe Jefferson.

He said to me: "I want you to tell me all about the circus from start to finish: how many people you carry and how large the tents are, when you usually open in the spring and all about it, and when you are through I will commence at the beginning and tell you all about my early barnstorming days, as we used to call it, in my business, and I think by the time we both are through we will be well on our way to Chicago."

He said: "My early experience in the business was much bitter and little sweet and it was only after many reverses and set-backs of all kinds that it commenced to come my way later and for many years back the hardest work that I did is only a pleasure to me now."

And the day that I spent on my way from Altoona to Chicago with the great actor Joe Jefferson will always be remembered as one of the brightest of my life. At Chicago he handed me a pass for myself and wife and said he would be glad to meet us in Chicago at any time during his engagement and if we came to the show to be sure and make ourselves known. But after an absence of over seven months, Janesville and my home looked better to me than even Joe Jefferson in his great play Rip Van Winkle.

One of the most interesting men in a way that I ever met in the business was James E. Cooper. "Jimmie" Cooper as he was familiarly known around the show with his partner James A. Bailey, were the first and I think the only men to take a show around the world and this they did before either of them were 30 years old.

He was later for many years partner in the Barnum show, and while he was considered hard headed, close fisted business man, Jimmie's one fault or his pleasure as you might say, was fast fast horses, fine carriages and the best harnesses that money could buy. He had one of the finest private barns that I ever saw at his home in Philadelphia on Broad Street, which at that time was the speedway of Philadelphia.

Early in the eighties while the Barnum show was showing at Eau Claire, Wis., Merritt Young, who at that time was treasurer of the show, wrote a letter for Mr. Cooper to Joshua Corning, who was an owner and trainer of fast horses here in Janesville, offering him $600 for a gray horse called Johnnie Morris. The letter was written on the Barnum stationery with the pictures of P. T. Barnum, James A. Bailey, James E. Cooper and Jim Hutchinson as the owners and Merritt Young as ticket agent and treasurer. Mr. Corning gave me the letter and shipped the horses as directed by Mr. Cooper to the show in Minneapolis.

Two or three years later while I was with the Forepaugh show in Philadelphia, Mr. Cooper came to the ticket wagon and said to me: "Dave, if you would like to ride after the fastest pair of trotters in Philadelphia, call around to my barn in the morning and I'll hitch up a pair for you, and one of them will be Johnnie Morris who came from your town." I was there on time in the morning and he put the best trapping that money would buy, a Dunscombe harness and a Brewster one man wagon and I started for the speedway and soon found out that they could step better than 30 together.

The following morning he called at the hotel for me and said that he wanted to take me out and show me some of the fine buildings in Philadelphia. He drove me onto Broad Street and showed me an entire block of dwellings with brown stone fronts and every house exactly alike. He said to me: "How do you like that for a nice row of houses?" I told him they were certainly nice and he said that he had built them a few years before and there had never been one vacant since they were completed.

While he kept a stable of from 10 to 12 of the fastest trotters and pacers that money would buy, he never raced them for money, but used them on the road for his own pleasure. Everybody around the show looked alike to Jimmie Cooper and many times you would find him sitting off on the ground to one side visiting with some of the working men and he often told me that he had gotten many a good idea in different ways from talking with the different working men around the show.

Jimmie Cooper died several years ago at his home in Broad Street in Philadelphia, leaving a wife, two sons and one daughter and it is said that he left about three millions in money. And this ended the career of one of the most famous men in the business and a man who was beloved by many.

Spared Money to Feed Her Mind.

During a year she spent $5.50 on eleven birthday presents. A girl who earned $4.25 a week bought pamphlets describing the English poor laws and poor law commission.

Claimed Victim After Many Years.
An extraordinary case of death from hydrophobia after a lapse of 22 years is reported from Ancona, Italy. A carabinieri named Golpell was suddenly seized with the disease the other day, and though at once removed to a hospital and given every possible medical attention, he died within three days. An investigation of the case showed that the bite from which he contracted the disease was inflicted no less than 22 years ago.

Mrs. Fred Laabs, 408 High Forest, Winona, Minn., states: "My husband had kidney trouble with severe pain across his back and was miserable and tired out. His bladder acted irregularly and there was a brick-dust like sediment. Finally he took Foley Kidney Pills with the result that the pain left him, his bladder acted regularly and he was strong and well again." Badger Drug Co.

Fads and Fashion

New York, Nov. 16.—Probably never before in the history of fashion has so much extravagance been displayed in any part of woman's costume as there is at this time in evening coats. There is scarcely a rich and beautiful material known which is not employed in the composition of such coats. One of the most characteristic materials used for evening coats this season is brocade, but there are also the most exquisite velvets, plushes, silks, satins, laces, furs and other materials, which the great designers employ in the construction of their choicest models.

Among the handsomest coat materials are the gold and silver brocades and the cloths embossed in close designs of white or colored velvet. There are some stunning, though hardly practical, coats made up in white and gold or white and silver, trimmed with white fox or dark fur. More serviceable are the coats of black velvet brocade on metallic grounds with black fur for trimmings and linings of brilliant color.

Taupe velvet upon dull silver or gold makes a rich and practical dark evening coat. Black and white effects in embossed velvet are good and there are some excellent models in these materials, usually long draped coats trimmed only with black fur. One of the great French designers has used successfully a velvet which has a rather fine close black design on a white ground with, at frequent intervals, just a small splash of color introduced into the design, no more than a small oval forming the center of a conventionalized flower. In black and white allied duff red this is very good looking and with brilliant blue in place of the dull red it is also attractive.

With each there is the fur border but the lining matches the touch of color and in one model there is a very wide band of heavy black brocade embroidery of the color running round the hips, or rather suggesting an exaggerated low waist line. The body part of the coat blouses slightly or wrinkled above the wide belt, but quite loose. This low wide girle or dropped waist line is seen in a number of the very smart imported coats, but it is becoming only to the woman with very slender hips.

The shades of vieux rose or rouge ancien and a host of brilliant soft yet glowing red and rose tones are much in vogue for evening coat purposes, in brocades of plain velvet, plush and satin and in cloths as well. The gray furs often trim these reds, toning down their brilliancy, but dark furs and white fox are liked on them, too.

All of the rich gold colorings from light to dark, which are a striking feature of the season's rich stuffs, are pressed into service for the evening coat, and as these colors harmonize with nearly any color, these coats are extremely practical.

Nothing has been found to bring the suit bodice into harmony with the skirt as well as veiling it with chiffon of matching color. The penumbral or basque effect on the separate waist is still seen. New models have the full-length sleeve. There is quite a fancy for brilliant colors in cuffs, these affording the one strong touch of color. There is an extensive use made of the large simulated button hole on waists, or the actual button hole and in color. Another novelty is the pear-shaped drop buttons or ornaments which hang from these buttonhole slashes. It is a rather pretty fashion. Sometimes small ornaments, fall from embroidered centers to discs, ovals, squares, oblongs or diamond shaped ornaments of braid or embroidery.

Bright colored blouses of brocade cloths and oriental prints are thinly veiled with chiffon in a color to match the skirt fabric. This permits the use of most glaring colors. Broad embroidery are also often veiled. A new idea in the sleeves of chiffon waists is to have a foundation sleeve skin tight made of transparent chiffon, and over this a small bishop sleeve, brought into a medium wide cuff, fitting close about the wrist. Usually this cuff is in satin or similar material.

Waists of two materials are very fashionable. For instance, the body of a waist may be developed in dark navy blue, while the sleeves and empire are of white satin. The long white satin sleeves may have bands of self-color embroidery, the wrists and just below the elbow, and at the neck a flat stock bow of white satin.

It is predicted by reliable authorities that silks will be more fashionable than ever during the late autumn and winter, and that they will be worn on all occasions and

DINNER STORIES

Hubby—I won't say marriage is a failure, but some are more fortunate in what they get than others.

Wife—You are quite right, dear. For instance, you got me, but I got only you.

"Private" John Allen went to visit an old friend at a hospital in New Orleans. The invalid was being fed chosen, moreover, in the richest and leveliest colors imaginable. Coat and skirt costumes, designed in comparatively simple styles, will be made in some of the heavier of the new ribbed and corded silks, fabrics which recall the bengalines which were once so popular, but which gain a fresh charm from the fact that, in many cases, they are most artistically shot with three distinctly different yet perfectly harmonious shades. The striped armure silks are also used for the same purpose, and are specially effective with fine lines of white on a navy blue ground.

An entirely new idea in collars is the coat collar of white ratine, out, of course, in the Robespierre fashion, which is so popular at present. The collar turns back over the tailored coat and the inevitable double jab of lace or fine embroidery hangs below the collar, covering the coat opening. Ratine promises to hold its own this season and many new and interesting ideas are shown in this line. For instance, a new blouse is of blue ratine, with a fleur-de-lis pattern in dull Pompeian red. The blouse is mounted over an under-blouse of tucked red chiffon, the sleeves and deep vest being made of the chiffon.

Probably a great deal of brown is going to be worn during the coming season. Very attractive is a brown tweed costume made with a stitched hem, the front seam being gored to show a panel ornamented with buttons and loops. On each side the fullness is arranged in pleats, which are stitched down to the knee. The coat is slightly longer than it would have been a couple of months ago, and it has a seam across the back. The collar, by the way, is plain, the revers being stitched with black. There is a good deal of stitching seen, but often it shows on the skirt only and does not appear at all upon the coat.

Velour hats are in great demand, and the leading milliners in Paris are showing them with smart ornaments of nientedged, faillie, ribbon. Mushroom shapes with tam-o'-shanter crowns are the important word in the millinery fashion of the day. Ostrich fantasies are used for afternoon hats. Wings rank next in importance, the white yulture, poupe and magnificence furnishing the greater part of the immense supply demanded by milliners.

Ribbon loops, and bows are still good and inexpensive, while airties are highly favored for afternoon and evening wear.
